Clifford Urges Tough Stand with Russians

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford says the United States must toughen its negotiating position toward Russia by pushing missile development and defense.

Clifford also came out strongly for keeping "a significant American military presence in Western Europe," which feels threatened by the concentration of Soviet troops in Czechoslovakia.

The defense chief's statements before the National Press Club were among several developments Thursday to indicate a toughening attitude since the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Clifford said recent developments confirm that "when and if we negotiate, safety and success demand that we negotiate from strength."

Clifford indicated that he believes the climate may not be right for the arms control talks which the Soviet Union has agreed to.

"We can continue to hope that, at an appropriate time, these talks can take place," he said.

Clifford appeared at the Press Club luncheon after a series of high level policy discussions, including a session of the National Security Council chaired by President Johnson.

Those sessions weighed the implications of Russia's reversion to a hard line, and possible action the United States might take at the diplomatic and military level to shore up Western defenses.

There were the related developments:

—Citing the Czech situation, the State Department announced cancellation of a tour of Russia by the University of Minnesota concert band and a second ceremonial flight marking the start of commercial air service between New York and Moscow.

—Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, commenting after a White House meeting, said there was a possibility the Senate will not act this year on the nuclear nonproliferation treaty.

—The State Department branded as "indecent and outrageous" attacks in the Soviet press which said the Atlantic Alliance had planned to take over Czechoslovakia before the Russians.

Paratroopers Are Hard Hit Near Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — A veteran Viet Cong battalion, herding women and children in front as human shields smashed into a company of American paratroopers in three waves early today. Thirty-one Americans were killed and 27 wounded.

The waves of troops from the Viet Cong's Cu Chi Regiment broke through a company from the U.S. 101st Airborne Division 26 miles northwest of Saigon. The Viet Cong and the paratroopers were still locked in battle as night fell.

Thirty-one Viet Cong have been reported killed so far.

AP photographer Max Nash reported from the battlefield that many of the Americans were killed by the Viet Cong as they lay wounded on the field.

The battle was one of three fought northwest and southwest of Saigon today in which, according to incomplete reports, at least 110 of the enemy were killed and 150 persons seized as suspected Viet Cong.

A Communist defector had told U.S. intelligence officers that Viet Cong troops were meeting Thursday in the village of Ap Trang Dau, nine miles from a major allied military base housing the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division and a South Vietnamese training base for rangers.

Troops from the 25th Division put a cordon around the village, and the Viet Cong tried unsuccessfully three times to break out.

Suddenly, Nash reported, about 300 enemy troops charged through rice paddies into one American paratrooper company 150 yards away. The came in three waves. At command headquarters in Cu Chi, the voice of a radio operator came through: "They are coming, they are coming." Then the radio went dead.

U.S. officers said the first wave of enemy troops came running shoulder-to-shoulder through the night, screaming, firing assault rifles and pushing women and children in front of them as human shields.

After breaking the cordon, the enemy vanished into the darkness, leaving 31 of their own dead on the battlefield. Nash said some of the third wave enemy troops had bamboo poles with them to carry off some of their dead.

Nixon Aims Campaign Drive At Middle Class Americans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Richard M. Nixon is campaigning for the votes of the nation's middle class—"the forgotten Americans" who he says are threatened by inflation and violence in the streets.

"They work in the offices of America, they work in the factories of America, their sons man the walls of freedom around the world," the Republican presidential candidate told a rally Thursday night.

"These are the forgotten Americans and they have been silent. Silent, but now they are waking up and their voices are being heard. And their voices are going to sweep across America and drown out those who would destroy America," he added.

Today Nixon moves his campaign into the Southwest for a visit to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration installation at Houston, Tex., and then a speech in the Texas city at night.

Like California, Texas is one of the big states Nixon feels he must carry to win the presidency.

A crowd estimated by police at 20,000 overflowed Buck Shaw Football Stadium at the University of Santa Clara, south of San Francisco, to hear a tanned and strong voiced Nixon at the first full scale rally at which balloons and Nixon signs filled the air.

Nixon said the nation's working class men and women are neither rich nor poor.

Attacking Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, Nixon said the Democrats nominated a man "who helped make the policies that got us into trouble."

The people, he said, "want a change in American life and they're going to get it." He promised "new leadership that will bring the war to an end on an honorable basis."

Die-hard supporters of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy are pushing for fourth-party slots on the ballots of several states, despite McCarthy's removal of his name as fast as it gets on some ballots.

An Associated Press survey shows McCarthy backers are working hardest in 12 states.

The push was successful in Indiana and Iowa, but McCarthy asked that his name be stricken.

Workers are still busy circulating petitions in Minnesota, Tennessee, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Vermont, Arizona, Florida, Delaware, Nebraska and California.

Democratic Presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey was at his Waverly, Minn., summer home, where he told questioning newsmen he doesn't agree that Nixon has the best chance of ending the Vietnam war.

East Germans See Czech Move Return to Stalinism

LEIPZIG, East Germany (AP) — The occupation of Czechoslovakia was a jolt for many East Germans and now they are worried, uncertain and silent.

Politics never are discussed freely in East Germany, but since the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia those familiar with the country say the lid is on tighter than ever.

"They will talk if you get them in a real quiet corner," said one exhibitor at the Leipzig fall fair who has many East German friends. "And they will tell you they don't like it and are afraid there will be more trouble."

Several persons said there were student protests in Leipzig and Erfurt after the invasion and leaflets were distributed.

Some say East German security police are checking typewriters in business offices, trying to find out where the leaflets were typed.

Even though they shy away from mentioning Czechoslovakia, Leipzig residents noted that many visitors stayed away from the fall fair because of "politics" and complain that "now there are even more travel restrictions."

"It's perhaps a step back toward Stalinism," said a cabbie. There is also uneasiness about German troops again occupying Czechoslovak soil. One exhibitor suggested that East Germans don't talk about it because they are ashamed of their country's participation in the Soviet-led occupation.

"They are more ashamed than you can imagine," he said. A student who refused to commit himself on whether the occupation was necessary, thought nevertheless it was a mistake for East German troops to participate. He said the Czechoslovaks may "dislike the Soviets, but now they hate us East Germans."

Pathet Lao Prince Gets Death Sentence

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Prince Ariya, son of Pathet Lao leader Prince Souphanouvong, was sentenced to death by a people's court "for preaching revisionism" and plotting to overthrow the Pathet Lao's pro-Peking faction, according to reports reaching here today.

The reports, which could not be confirmed, said Ariya died several months ago in Sam Neua Province, which is held by the Pathet Lao. It was unclear whether he was executed or died from other causes.

An unconfirmed report said a new provincial government has been installed in Sam Neua.

Riot Duty Bill Presented by Patrol

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill of $58,223 for riot duty at the Ohio Penitentiary between June 24 and July 14 was submitted by the Ohio Highway Patrol Thursday.

The Controlling Board has approved release of funds to cover the cost of patrolmen remaining on duty inside the prison for three weeks following a riot by inmates June 24.

Caseworkers Ask Halt to Expenditure

Only 3 Youngsters Now Housed in Children's Home

Pickaway County Commissioners have promised the Child Welfare Board a new Children's Home at an estimated cost of $170,000.

Earlier this week, The Herald heard cries from caseworkers closely associated with the child placement procedures of the board to "stop the commissioners from building a new home — we don't need it — there are alternatives that would save the taxpayers thousands of dollars."

The "promise to build" was recorded Aug. 19, by Commissioners Wayne Hines and Lloyd Melvin with Commissioner Charles Morris Jr. voicing an objection claiming a new Children's Home "would bankrupt the county." Morris also contends the costs of construction will be well over $200,000 by completion.

In support of the lack of a need for a new home, caseworkers pointed out that only three children are now residing at the home, although over 300 youngsters are currently on the custody roles of the Child Welfare Board.

ALSO supporting the move to block construction of a new home is Ralph Starkey, executive secretary to the CWB. Starkey had earlier favored a new home. After studying the situation with the professional staff of caseworkers he favors the proposal of a receiving home for temporary housing of youngsters while they are being processed for placement in individual homes.

A Children's Home, in the minds of most people, is a tranquil refuge for waifs and orphans, where they can spend most of their childhood under the protection of the state.

In reality, of the more than 300 children supervised by the welfare department, only one is an orphan. And the home is not a permanent residence for these children, but rather a stopping-off place before transfer to a private family.

Kentucky Bank Shortage Found

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Irregularities of between $250,000 and $500,000 were reported by the State National Bank Thursday.

The FBI said it is investigating the situation which reportedly began when the bank discovered a loan had been issued to a dead person.

The bank also said that two employees, Ernest B. Heinisch, 50, and Kenneth Forman, 50, have been relieved of their duties.

No charges have been filed in the case.

Heinisch was vice president of the installment loan department and Forman was his assistant manager.

School Strikes Are Unsettled Across Nation

Only Philadelphia Teachers Reach Contract Accord

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A threatened teachers' strike in Philadelphia has been averted but hundreds of teachers elsewhere in the nation continue walkouts that have delayed the opening of the fall term.

Any hopes for an extended vacation among 290,000 Philadelphia school children were dashed Thursday when the city put together a $27.6 million wage package to avert a strike by the 12,500 teachers.

Under the new two-year pact, salaries go up $1,800 to give beginning teachers $6,700 at the start and pushing the top wage to $13,200. The fall term opens today.

In Michigan where schools were scheduled to open earlier this week, 11 school districts serving almost 64,000 youngsters remained closed due to teachers' strikes.

Today's scheduled registration for 14,000 children in the Montgomery County-Clarksville, Tenn., system was postponed until further notice with 500 teachers out on strike over school budget cuts.

In East Chicago, Ind., a strike by nearly 500 teachers entered its third day. Six of the city's 13 schools were closed again Thursday and less than 50 percent of the 100,000 pupils showed up. All but about 2,100 were sent home.

In East Chicago Heights, Ill., 49 of the district's 70 teachers called in sick Thursday and an attorney for the board declared it was "impossible for that many teachers to be sick at the same time."

A court injunction was obtained ordering the teachers back to work immediately but there were no indications as to whether they would comply.

An injunction was issued in Rhode Island directing Cumberland teachers to end a two-day boycott and report to classrooms today. A lawyer for the Cumberland Teachers Association said its members would comply.

Lone Gun Wielder Slays Cincy Man

CINCINNATI (AP) — A lone gunman shot one man to death and seriously wounded a woman as the victims sat in a car parked in the Walnut Hills section late Thursday night.

Fatally shot was 21-year-old James Beatty of Cincinnati and 18-year-old Hope Dudley of Cincinnati was being treated at Cincinnati Bethesda Hospital. Police took Ester Harper, 28, Cincinnati, into custody at a nearby rooming house.

File of former charges against Harper was pending.

Sen. Dirksen in Full Flower As Marigolds Bloom Again

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was a sure sign Congress was back in session. The champion of the marigold, the protector of birds was holding court.

Sen. Everett McKinley Dirksen, Republican minority leader from Pekin, Ill., was perched on a table in the Senate press gallery with a cup of coffee in his hand and cigarettes nearby, holding his weekly news conference for the first time in a month.

Tousle-haired and irrepressible as ever, not even a story about a report that he was marked for assassination escaped the wry touch.

"I don't want my head blown off," Dirksen said he told police after one of three reports of threats on his life.

"I've got flowers in bloom and they need me. I've got 65 bird feeders now and the birds need me," he said.

But the news conference, darting as usual from anecdote to reminiscence to hard answers, touched on more than birds, flowers and assassination.

What did he think of chances the Senate would confirm Abe Fortas' nomination as chief justice?

"Not roseate," he intoned.

Did he think President Johnson should withdraw the nomination?

"I don't know what the President should or shouldn't do. I'm not the president. I should be not I'm not."

4 More Ohioans Dead in Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army Sgt. Charles E. David Jr. of Wellsville, Navy hospitalman Richard L. Powell of Youngstown and Marine Cpl. Thomas H. Moon of Toledo were Ohioans killed recently in action in Vietnam, the Defense Department reported Thursday.

Listed as dead of nonhostile causes was Marine Lance Cpl. Gregory J. Kellogg of Lorain.

sense is unreachable because of the war's "limits," there is another viewpoint that suggests American boys can start moving out right now without any appreciable military injury.

Just as another quarter of a million American troops brought into Vietnam would not necessarily win the war, many believe the converse applies: A quarter of a million troops pulled out would not necessarily lose it.

Civilian and military viewpoints on the prospects do not necessarily coincide, but the view that American force levels could and should be reduced has already been placed in circulation in the top government levels in Washington, according to senior Americans here. Its proponents see the war's costs — about $30 billion this year — as the major irritant within the United States over Vietnam.

Some Americans here believe that a phased reduction of U.S. troops could begin immediately, paring the number to 200,000 by 1972. One of the proponents is John P. Vann, an influential and knowledgeable regional director of the U.S.-backed pacification program.

Vann would cut deeply into the elaborate military structure built by the former commander of U.S. troops and now chief of staff of the Army, Gen. William C. Westmoreland.

The U.S. high command jealously guards its establishment in Vietnam. Vann admits his proposal is provocative—"It would need a hard-headed secretary of defense to push it through."

Senior U.S. field commanders are against pulling out any American troops in the foreseeable future. Lt. Gen. Richard G. Stilwell, commander of the area that includes the battle-scarred demilitarized zone, comments: "No troop commander will ever admit he has too many trigger-pullers." Certainly it is a tenet among commanders that they need as much manpower as is necessary to accomplish the missions assigned them.

The commanders argue that under the ceiling of 550,000 U.S. troops for Vietnam imposed on the military, an "economy of forces" strategy is already being practiced in most of the country. This is the minimum deployment of forces in one area to permit the maximum deployment in another.

Only around Saigon itself and in the two northernmost provinces are there enough forces to amply meet maximum enemy pressure. Elsewhere the allies react to enemy thrusts by rapidly massing the limited forces available.

American efforts in Vietnam presumably are based on the assumption that Vietnamese will eventually take over the defense burden, but critics see the opposite taking place in some areas. Around Saigon, for example, the continuous threat of a major enemy attack has tempted the U.S. command to insist upon a greater voice in security than is normally the case.

"We could nursemaid the Vietnamese army forever," one civilian official commented. Several factors are seen as possibly speeding up the time for a partial American withdrawal.

One is improved weaponry in the Vietnamese army. All 158 maneuver battalions in the regular forces have received the M16 automatic rifle with chrome-plated chambers and strengthened recoil buffers to prevent jamming. Local militia forces have started getting the M16, giving them equal if not better firepower than the Viet Cong for the first time since 1964.

The U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, is "showing considerably less patience for high-level excuses than did Westy," according to one official close to him. Abrams believes that real progress in Vietnam can be made only by the Vietnamese, and has told them so. Vietnamese "officers know that the honeymoon with the U.S. is over — they must fish or cut bait," said one official.

To avert what might turn out to be a complete rejection of the war by the U.S. public, Vann

Dayton's Hog Bottom Slums Cleared for New Housing

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Hog Bottom passed into history today with the groundbreaking for what is said to be the largest Negro-backed housing project in the state.

Hog Bottom, a section of Dayton, was so-called because pigs ran loose among its shanties. Those who knew said it was one of the foulest Negro slums in the United States.

Now the land is cleared. On Monday Mose Bryant, Negro building superintendent, will deploy his men on the first stages of the construction of more than 200 homes for families earning about $7,000 a year.

C. J. McIn Jr., president of Madden, Inc., one of the developing companies, said the three-bedroom homes will be available for a down payment of $650-$1,000, and monthly payments of about $110.

The basic price of the houses would be from $17,000.

McIn pointed to several features which will minimize maintenance costs: there will be very little woodwork exposed to the weather, the buildings will be of brick, the area will be landscaped by the developers and concrete driveways will be laid.

Houses of the same quality elsewhere in Dayton, McIn said, sell for $21,000 or more.

His company was able to keep prices low, he claimed, because former slum land could be bought relatively cheap.

The Madden Hills urban renewal area in which the predominantly Negro development companies are operating, is about two miles from downtown Dayton—10 minutes' drive on the freeway.

"This definitely meets some of the housing needs of the community," said McIn of the proposed 264-home, 175-acre project. He hopes that it will be completed by the end of 1969.

"It isn't Utopia, but it's a start."

"Black subcontractors and black workers will get first crack at the jobs," said McIn, also a Democratic state representative and funeral director. "There will be a black voice in the management."

He estimated that more than 50 per cent of the estimated $5.5 million capital in the project would be invested by Negroes.

Ohio Crime Plan Ready

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Key figures in the fight against crime in Ohio adopted a five-point plan Thursday for the use of federal money made available under the Safe Streets Act.

"We need to go on record to show what we want in an overall state plan to fight crime," said Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe chairman of the Ohio Crime Commission (OCC).

The 1968 federal Safe Streets and Crime Control Act provides up to $1 million a year for Ohio and another $3 million for municipalities, counties and law enforcement agencies, for approved anticrime measures.

The Executive Committee of the OCC, which approved the five-point plan, came out in favor of a statewide communications and data processing network.

The other four proposals are state support for a central police academy, that the OCC be established as a permanent body, the formation of regional crime laboratories, and the sponsorship of police courses at state universities.

No Russian Pullout Seen

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—A Bulgarian military paper said today any expectation that troops of the Warsaw Pact would withdraw soon from Czechoslovakia are "unrealistic."

A special correspondent of the Sofia paper Narodna Armia (People's Army) said a fast withdrawal of troops is desired by "the reaction and the counter-revolution which wish to have another swing at it," Tanjug news agency reported from the Bulgarian capital.

The Bulgarian paper reported Soviet military units returned to some cities, from which they had withdrawn because decisions of the Czechoslovak Communist party Central Committee are not being carried out and are even being sabotaged in some places.

"The reaction continues to spread various harmful rumors in order to disseminate mistrust toward the troops of the fraternal countries," the paper said.

2 Stolen Cars Are Recovered

Two cars stolen from county residents were recovered recently.

The car, stolen from Manfred Daniels of Route 1, was recovered by Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies on E. Ringgold-Southern Road near Route 22.

A Chillicothe girl has been arrested in relation to the theft and two other Ross County boys are being sought.

The car of Claude Taylor Jr., 305 Maumee Drive, was stolen from Logan Elm Inn early Sunday. The car was recovered Thursday by Columbus police who arrested three juveniles in connection with the robbery.

Stock List Rises Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued its rise in active trading this afternoon.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 250 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.79 at 920.31.

The average was approaching its closing high for the year, 923.72, made July 15.

Traders and investors were attracted by the continuity of four straight market sessions for the first time since early June. The fact that the market rise won greater momentum since Tuesday had what brokers called a cumulative or "bandwagon" effect, helped by good economic news.

A trend toward easier money and a rise this week in scheduled auto assemblies despite the Labor Day holiday were among encouraging factors.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 339.2, with industrials up 1.6, rails up 1.1, and utilities off .1.

Prices advanced in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Jaycees Hash Airport Plan At Meeting

NORMAN CRABTREE

Norman Crabtree, director of the Ohio Aviation Department, told Circleville Jaycees of the urgent need for a community airport during the monthly dinner meeting at Wardell Party Home Thursday.

A motion was made to activate the Airport Committee. The Jaycees plan to approach the County Commissioners with a petition that allows Circleville City Council to proceed with the airport project.

The action would be in conjunction with the State of Ohio and money would be available from the state. It was passed unanimously that all persons concerned including the mayor, City Council, City Solicitor and County Commissioners be made fully aware of the facts and responsibilities of obtaining an airport.

Other business at Thursday's meeting included the appointment of Dr. H. H. Shutlworth to chairman of the Public Relations Department by Asa Elsea, president.

Guests at the meeting were Fred Summers of the State Highway Patrol and Dale Long of DuPont.

Food Flights For Biafra Nights Only

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—The Red Cross stepped up its night food flights to Biafra Thursday night as squabbling between the Nigerian and Biafran governments continued to delay the start of a daytime foodlift.

The International Red Cross Committee in Geneva said six planes landed 43 tons of food and medicine and 33 relief and medical workers during the night. A spokesman said the number of flights is likely to be increased in the next few nights.

August Lindt, International Red Cross coordinator for West Africa, was in Biafra Thursday trying to persuade the secessionist leaders to accept Nigeria's condition for not interfering with the plane loads of food and medicine and that they land at a Biafran air strip called Annabelle.

Diplomatic sources said Lindt might return to Lagos if the two sides in the 14-month-old civil war continued to disagree on a landing site.

"We will not change our stand," a Nigerian military spokesman said.

The Nigerians had threatened to shoot down all planes flying into Biafra, contending that they might be carrying arms to the rebels. But they agreed not to interfere for 10 days, starting Thursday, with Red Cross mercy flights going to Annabelle.

Commissioners, Mental Health Board Air Finances

Pickaway County Board of Commissioners met with the Pickaway County Mental Retardation Board in a special session Thursday to discuss financing the Brooks - Yates School and the retarded adult workshop.

The meeting was called because of a request by the board for an additional $13,350 to operate the school and the workshop for the remainder of the year.

Part of the additional funds asked are to finance the purchase of two 20-passenger school buses and the remainder to pay salaries of personnel and purchase supplies for the school and workshop.

Commissioners pointed out to the board that in 1967, $28,081.24 was appropriated for the operation of the school. In 1968, $39,585 was appropriated and they were now asking for more funds before the year was over.

IN addition the 1969 budget asks for $51,855. They said that a long range financial program will have to be outlined by the board, covering at least the next ten-year period.

Revenue from the levy for operating the mental retardation program is less than $20,000 a year. The remainder of the money comes from the county's general fund.

Mississippi Democrats Bolt Party

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mississippi's regular Democratic leaders, including Gov. John Bell Williams, have bolted the national Democratic party to campaign for George C. Wallace.

Wallace, former governor of Alabama is the presidential candidate of the newly formed American Independent party.

In urging Mississippians to vote for Wallace, the state Democratic executive committee said Thursday the election of Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey would be a disaster.

Leon Bramlett of Clarksdale, committee chairman, made the announcement after a private session of the committee. Williams, whose defection was expected, stood at his side wearing a Wallace button.

"It is the opinion of the state executive committee that in Mississippi a vote for GOP nominee Richard Nixon will be both a wasted vote and a help to Hubert Humphrey," Bramlett said.

Williams said he was in agreement with the committee—and would have backed Wallace in any case.

Supporting Wallace, he said, is the only way to "stop the Eastern Establishment that had control of both major parties."

Local Lawmen Attend Practice

Five Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies, 11 auxiliary deputies and two Circleville policemen attended a session at the Chillicothe police firing range Wednesday and Thursday.

The program, under the direction of an official of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was designed to provide law officers with new information about the use of pistols and to give them an opportunity to practice their shooting. Each man fired 100 rounds of ammunition.

Sheriff's Deputies Bill Dountz and Richard Clark received the highest score at the target practice.

Other sheriff's deputies attending the practice were George Linder, Warren Straley and James Lockard. Police officers attending were William Pontious and Francis Smallwood.

Auxiliary sheriff's deputies at the training program were Harry Coss, Nelson Embrey, Marvin Widmer, Tom Elsea, Bob Featheringham, Marion Hoover, Gary George, Cecil Hatfield Jr., Robert Hoover, Neil Corcoran and Dale Wolfe.

Commissioners stated the general fund could not continue to bear the increases in financial need of the mental retardation program.

Mrs. Margaret Whaley told commissioners the cost of caring for mentally retarded persons would continue to climb. She explained that they were required to start the adult workshop in May. It has been in operation all summer.

The board will be reimbursed next year on a matching basis for funds spent for the workshop.

"Somebody has to do something for those who cannot do for themselves," Mrs. Whaley told commissioners.

Commissioners suggested the board consider asking for a new tax levy at the November 1969 election.

MEMBERS of the mental retardation board are Tom Downing, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, Mrs. Margaret Whaley, Mrs. Annabelle Mowery, Mrs. Robert Porter, Mrs. John Bowers and Dr. H. H. Shutlworth.

All three commissioners, Wayne Hines, Charles Morris and Lloyd Melvin, were present.

Mayor Daley Gets Air Time

8 Cities Linked To TV Networks

CHICAGO (AP)—Mayor Richard J. Daley will get his chance to show in at least eight cities his view of what happened in demonstrations during the week of the Democratic National Convention.

A statement signed by the mayor and released Thursday by an aide said Daley has accepted the offer of prime time by two broadcasting companies.

A documentary program, prepared by the mayor's office, will be shown on the MetroMedia television and radio network, reaching New York, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Washington and Kansas City.

The Chicago-based WGN Continental Broadcasting Co. also will show the documentary through its outlets in Chicago, Denver and Duluth, Minn. The firm has offered to make the program available to any other station interested in showing it.

Time and date of the airing have not been set, the aide said, but will be announced shortly. It was not announced who will narrate the film.

Earlier this week, Daley asked the three major television networks for prime time to present his case to the American people. Daley charged that the networks presented "one-sided coverage" of demonstrations and police actions during last week's convention in Chicago.

The Columbia Broadcasting System rejected Daley's request, saying it already had given Daley a chance to present his view in a 30-minute interview during the convention.

The National Broadcasting Co. and American Broadcasting Co. offered Daley an opportunity to appear on a prime-time panel discussion with newsmen, but refused to allow him to make an independent presentation.

Daley has rejected these proposals because the "format does not meet the purpose of providing a balanced presentation," the aide said.

BREST, France (AP)—Five explosions were touched off Thursday night in municipal and tax collecting offices, apparently by britanny nationalists. Severe damage was done but no one was injured.

The Brittany Liberation Front has sporadically supported its demands for autonomy by terrorist acts. The Bretons are of Celtic origin, and the movement for "liberation" has existed for many years.

Washington Grange To Elect Officers

Washington Grange will meet in regular session 8 p. m. Tuesday in the Grange and 4-H Building at the fairgrounds.

Election of officers will be held followed by a carry-in dessert smorgasbord at the conclusion of the meeting.

Welfare . . .

in a county home to be raised is "a harmful and unnecessary experience" according to a publication of the State Department of Welfare.

In keeping with this opinion local staff members have tried and succeeded in placing children in private homes. The average stay of a child at the county home need be as little as a few weeks, according to the staff.

The three children presently inhabiting the Children's Home will soon be placed with foster parents, according to a staff social worker.

Commissioners suggested the board consider asking for a new tax levy at the November 1969 election.

TRAINED staff members estimate that properly administered, a Children's Home in Pickaway County would require facilities for about half a dozen children as opposed to the split-level 30-bed structure proposed by the commissioners.

An adequate temporary home for the children can be provided in Circleville today without costing the taxpayers one cent over what they have already paid, one staff member pointed out.

Starkey says a fund for repairs of the Children Home exists with about $55,000 in it. This money, according to one source, would be sufficient to buy a large brick house in the city, remodel it to meet state requirements and attractively furnish and decorate it.

Such a building, purchased without new bonds, taxes or strain on the county budget, would also cost less to maintain than the board-proposed new building to be built in the country at the site of the present home.

Besides being less expensive for the county, the incity receiving home would be more in keeping with the needs of the children and the recommendations of leading experts in the field of child welfare.

On June 19, 1967, Marvin Adams, deputy director of the Columbus District, Child Welfare Division, State of Ohio offered the Child Welfare Board and commissioners five alternatives. They were:

1. PLACE children who came under the care of the Child Welfare Board in foster homes immediately.

2. Renovate the Children's Home to meet state health and safety requirements at a cost estimated over $100,000 by three different architects.

3. Find two private homes, one for boys and one for girls, to be used as receiving homes. Rent the homes and pay the occupants to take care of the children. Adams said the homes could be certified for ten children each.

4. Purchase two homes one for boys and one for girls, staff them, and operate them as receiving homes.

5. Build a new home to be used as a receiving center.

Commissioners at that time favored the plan of finding two private homes and subsidizing the owners to care for children temporarily until they could be placed in foster homes.

THAT plan has been opposed from the beginning by the Child Welfare Board and Starkey. They maintain that it would be impossible to find a suitable home occupied by persons capable of caring for the children.

The Child Welfare Board then recommended either purchasing two large homes, or building a new facility. Commissioners were opposed to buying two homes.

Adams emphasized then that the state does not approve of "institutionalized care" for youngsters. He explained that no federal funds were available to build institutions.

The Welfare Board has pushed for the construction of a new home since then. They asked commissioners to place a levy on the ballot for construction of a new receiving facility, but the commissioners recommended that it not be put up to a vote.

2 Youths Injured In 1-Car Mishap

Two local youths were injured in a one-car accident on Gibson Blacker Road near the intersection of Route 316 about 9:45 p.m. Thursday.

Taken to Berger Hospital were Rickey Teets, 17, South Bloomfield, driver of the car, and Thomas Thomas, 16, Ashville, a passenger. Both boys suffered minor cuts around the eyes.

The Teets car was southbound on Gibson Blacker Road when the driver lost control of his vehicle, going off the right side of the road into grass, coming back onto the road and running off the left side of the road into a steep ditch.

Teets was cited by the sheriff's department for excessive speed for the road and conditions.

Bid for Sheriff's Cruiser Legitimate

A bid submitted by Joe Moats Motor Sales for the new sheriff's cruiser, not considered because county commissioners thought it improper, was a legitimate bid.

Wayne Hines, commission chairman, told The Herald Thursday that a typographical error caused the solons to disregard the bid.

The bid for the new cruiser was awarded to Kenny Hannan Ford for $2,422 plus the wrecked cruiser. The bid submitted by Moats was $2,400 plus the wrecked vehicle.

Dayton's Hog Bottom Slums Cleared for New Housing

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Hog Bottom passed into history today with the groundbreaking for what is said to be the largest Negro-backed housing project in the state.

Hog Bottom, a section of Dayton, was so-called because pigs ran loose among its shanties. Those who knew said it was one of the foulest Negro slums in the United States.

Now the land is cleared. On Monday Mose Bryant, Negro building superintendent, will deploy his men on the first stages of the construction of more than 200 homes for families earning about $7,000 a year.

C. J. McLin Jr., president of Madden, Inc., one of the developing companies, said the three-bedroom homes will be available for a down payment of $650-$1,000, and monthly payments of about $110.

The basic price of the houses would be $17,000.

McLin pointed to several features which will minimize maintenance costs: there will be very little woodwork exposed to the weather, the buildings will be of brick, the area will be landscaped by the developers and concrete driveways will be laid.

Houses of the same quality elsewhere in Dayton, McLin said, sell for $21,000 or more.

His company was able to keep prices low, he claimed, because former slum land could be bought relatively cheap.

The Madden Hills urban renewal area in which the predominantly Negro development companies are operating, is about two miles from downtown Dayton—10 minutes' drive on the freeway.

"This definitely meets some of the housing needs of the community," said McLin of the proposed 264-home, 175-acre project. He hopes that it will be completed by the end of 1969. "It isn't Utopia, but it's a start."

"Black subcontractors and black workers will get first crack at the jobs," said McLin, also a Democratic state representative and funeral director. "There will be a black voice in the management."

He estimated that more than 50 per cent of the estimated $5.5 million capital in the project would be invested by Negroes.

While he stressed with pride that blacks would get a large share of the 22,600 man-hours of local labor involved, McLin said the homes will be available to anyone, black or white.

Stock List Rises Again

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued its rise in active trading this afternoon.

Gains outnumbered losses by about 250 issues on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.79 at 920.31.

The average was approaching its closing high for the year, 923.72, made July 15.

Traders and investors were attracted by the continuity of four straight market sessions for the first time since early June. The fact that the market rise went greater momentum since Tuesday had what brokers called a cumulative or "bandwagon" effect, helped by good economic news.

A trend toward easier money and a rise this week in scheduled auto assemblies despite the Labor Day holiday were among encouraging factors.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up 1.1 at 339.2, with industrials up 1.6, rails up 1.1, and utilities off 1. Prices advanced in brisk trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Jaycees Hash Airport Plan At Meeting

NORMAN CRABTREE

Norman Crabtree, director of the Ohio Aviation Department, told Circleville Jaycees of the urgent need for a community airport during the monthly dinner meeting at Wardell Party Home Thursday.

A motion was made to activate the Airport Committee. The Jaycees plan to approach the County Commissioners with a petition that allows Circleville City Council to proceed with the airport project.

The action would be in conjunction with the State of Ohio and money would be available from the state. It was passed unanimously that all persons concerned including the mayor, City Council, City Solicitor and County Commissioners be made fully aware of the facts and responsibilities of obtaining an airport.

Other business at Thursday's meeting included the appointment of Dr. H. H. Shults to chairman of the Public Relations Department by Asa Elsea, president.

Guests at the meeting were Fred Summers of the State Highway Patrol and Dale Long of DuPont.

Food Flights For Biafra Nights Only

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — The Red Cross stepped up its night food flights to Biafra Thursday night as squabbling between the Nigerian and Biafran governments continued to delay the start of a daytime foodlift.

The International Red Cross Committee in Geneva said six planes landed 43 tons of food and medicine and 33 relief and medical workers during the night. A spokesman said the number of flights is likely to be increased in the next few nights.

August Lindt, International Red Cross coordinator for West Africa, was in Biafra Thursday trying to persuade the secessionist leaders to accept Nigeria's conditions for not interfering with the plane loads of food and medicine and that they land at a Biafran air strip called Annabelle.

Diplomatic sources said Lindt might return to Lagos if the two sides in the 14-month-old civil war continued to disagree on a landing site.

"We will not change our stand," a Nigerian military spokesman said.

The Nigerians had threatened to shoot down all planes flying into Biafra, contending that they might be carrying arms to the rebels. But they agreed not to interfere for 10 days, starting Thursday, with Red Cross mercy flights going to Annabelle.

Commissioners, Mental Health Board Air Finances

Pickaway County Board of Commissioners met with the Pickaway County Mental Retardation Board in a special session Thursday to discuss financing the Brooks - Yates School and the retarded adult workshop.

The meeting was called because of a request by the board for an additional $13,350 to operate the school and the workshop for the remainder of the year.

Part of the additional funds asked are to finance the purchase of two 20-passenger school buses and the remainder to pay salaries of personnel and purchase supplies for the school and workshop.

Commissioners pointed out to the board that in 1967, $28,081.24 was appropriated for the operation of the school. In 1968, $39,585 was appropriated and they were now asking for more funds before the year was over.

IN addition the 1969 budget asks for $51,835. They said that a long range financial program will have to be outlined by the board, covering at least the next ten-year period.

Revenue from the levy for operating the mental retardation program is less than $20,000 a year. The remainder of the money comes from the county's general fund.

Commissioners stated the general fund could not continue to bear the increases in financial need of the mental retardation program.

Mrs. Margaret Whaley told commissioners the cost of caring for mentally retarded persons would continue to climb. She explained that they were required to start the adult workshop in May. It has been in operation all summer.

Commissioners suggested the board consider asking for a new tax levy at the November 1969 election.

MEMBERS of the mental retardation board are Tom Downing, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh, Mrs. Margaret Whaley, Mrs. Annabelle Mowery, Mrs. Robert Porter, Mrs. John Bowers and Dr. H. H. Shults.

All three commissioners, Wayne Hines, Charles Morris and Lloyd Melvin, were present.

Republicans Out Of History Books

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Prominent North Carolina Republicans as well as Negroes have been excluded from state history textbooks, a GOP candidate says.

Joe L. Morgan, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, said Thursday that exclusion of the Republican "is just as bad, or no worse, than the systematic exclusion of Negroes from the mainstream of American life."

He said the "missing chapters" should be incorporated in future textbooks.

Ohio Crime Plan Ready

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Key figures in the fight against crime in Ohio adopted a five-point plan Thursday for the use of federal money made available under the Safe Streets Act.

"We need to go on record to show what we want in an overall state plan to fight crime," said Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe chairman of the Ohio Crime Commission (OCC).

The 1968 federal Safe Streets and Crime Control Act provides up to $1 million a year for Ohio and another $3 million for municipalities, counties and law enforcement agencies, for approved anticrime measures.

The Executive Committee of the OCC, which approved the five-point plan, came out in favor of a statewide communications and data processing network.

The other four proposals are state support for a central police academy, that the OCC be established as a permanent body, the formation of regional crime laboratories, and the sponsorship of police courses at state universities.

No Russian Pullout Seen

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A Bulgarian military paper said today any expectations that troops of the Warsaw Pact would withdraw soon from Czechoslovakia are "unrealistic."

A special correspondent of the Sofia paper Narodna Armiya (People's Army) said a fast withdrawal of troops is desired by "the reaction and the counter-revolution which wish to have another swing at it." Tanjug news agency reported from the Bulgarian capital.

The Bulgarian paper reported Soviet military units returned to some cities, from which they had withdrawn because decisions of the Czechoslovak Communist party Central Committee are not being carried out and are even being sabotaged in some places.

"The reaction continues to spread various harmful rumors in order to disseminate mistrust toward the troops of the fraternal countries," the paper said.

2 Stolen Cars Are Recovered

Two cars stolen from county residents were recovered recently.

The car, stolen from Manford Daniels of Route 1 was recovered by Pickaway County Sheriff's deputies on E. Ringgold-Southern Road near Route 22.

A Chillicothe girl has been arrested in relation to the theft and two other Ross County boys are being sought.

The car of Claude Taylor Jr., 305 Maumee Drive, was stolen from Logan Elm Inn early Sunday. The car was recovered Thursday by Columbus police who arrested three juveniles in connection with the robbery.

aid, a planned reduction of U.S. forces would be a necessity. "We have to show them that this thing can end," he said. He would go about the reduction by partly dismantling the elaborate military structure erected by Gen. Westmoreland. "The first 100,000 Americans to leave would be for free," Vann declared. "They are the clerks, the laundrymen, the engineer battalions building officers' clubs throughout the country. So many extraneous things are soaking up people not essential."

In Vann's view, infantry divisions should be limited to one base camp each instead of several (the 1st Division has five base camps). Each base camp generally requires one battalion of infantrymen to secure, meaning that as much as one third of the trigger-pullers in each of the 11 American infantry divisions are standing guard duty.

Restricted to one base camp, U.S. troops would be required to stay out in the field longer, and walk more, particularly if fewer helicopters were used, another Vann recommendation to save the taxpayers money.

In the 3rd Corps area there are 900 helicopters, each using 3,600 pounds of fuel per day. Others who agree with Vann's viewpoint believe that vast quantities of ammunition are used unnecessarily, particularly in the "searching by fire" tactic wherein a unit moves into an area spraying gunfire in front of it. There are also critics of the constant B52 raids that rattle cities every night. "Those raids cost half a million dollars apiece," one official commented. "I know of at least half a dozen raids where an infantry squad would have been better advised to check out the area—at one thousandth of the cost."

Critics of the cost of the war divide annual expenditures this way: $800,000 U.S. economic aid; $1.8 billion military aid to the Vietnamese army; $2.6 billion in direct support of Vietnamese operations such as naval blockades and air support. The U.S. effort costs an additional $25 billion.

"Our real costs," said one high-level critic "are the 11 U.S. divisions and telling them that the sky is the limit moneywise. If some brigade commander decides to plow the country, we will ship out the equipment. Defoliate the highlands, we'll send the chemicals over. What commander has not told you he would rather spend a million dollars on bombs to stop an enemy force rather than risk one American life? I hate to say it but in Vietnam now that money has become as important as that one life."

Those here who see a U.S. planned withdrawal as possible say they have no intention of selling out the Vietnamese. "I think that taking over the burden of the war is within their capability," Vann said. "Things are looking up, not enough but some. But as we phased out our troops, at some time we might have to make a value judgment, particularly if the other side was benefiting from our withdrawal."

Some Vietnamese units have already taken over from Americans. The four-craft swiftboat unit at Phuoc Quoc Island is now all Vietnamese. The Vietnamese navy has taken over responsibility for manning eight coastal patrol stations.

Vietnamese minesweepers clear the important Dong Nai River each day. The Vietnamese air force now has a squadron of UH1B (Huey) helicopters, and a squadron of Vietnam F5 Freedom Fighter jets has flown 5,000 combat missions in the past year.

Vietnamese also are taking over an increasing number of Special Forces camps in the highlands, and the Vietnamese army is moving in to some places, such as the Bong Son Plain, that American divisions once policed.

Lowery Lane Trio Sent to Grand Jury for Forgery

Three Circleville residents apprehended by Circleville Police for forgery were bound over to the Grand Jury under $100 bond each following hearings today in Municipal Court.

According to Police, Billy Joe Johnson, James David Campbell and his wife, Lucinda Marie Campbell, all of Lowery Lane, are in jail now.

Police said that Johnson stole a social security check from the home of his father, John Johnson, Route 2, Williamsport. He and the Campbell couple cashed the check for $44.30 at Starkey's Market, Margaret Alley. Police nabbed the trio Thursday.

Last month Campbell broke into the mailbox of Mrs. William Lowery and stole a check also belonging to John Johnson, according to police.

Soviets Honor Leo Tolstoy

YASNAYA POLYANA, U.S.S.R. (AP) — Author Leo Tolstoy, whose reputation survived and flowered under communism, is being honored Sunday throughout the Soviet Union as one of the giants of world literature. It is the 140th anniversary of his birth.

The Russian Communists consider him their own man, even though he was a count in quite another era. His ideas, they claim, expressed the "boiling indignation of the masses" in the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

The feelings Tolstoy described in his exhaustive works led to the Russian Revolution and the first success of Communist power. This has helped Tolstoy keep his high place in university reading lists and, more importantly, in the "approved" category at the tightly controlled state publishing houses.

Sir Reginald R. School, Australia's consul general in the United States, told the closing session of the Ohio Judicial Conference that American courts should get tough with criminals. School expressed "extreme astonishment" at what he described as the appeasement of rioters for sociological or racial reasons.

He said a preoccupation with "over-legalism and over-elaboration of personal rights" had brought America to the brink of anarchy.

He was critical of court leniency, noting that FBI statistics indicate most criminals repeat their offenses.

U.S. Grand Jury Indictments Are Returned

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The federal grand jury Thursday returned indictments in bank robbery, bank embezzlement and arson cases here.

Charles M. Loomis, 48, of Huber Heights, was indicted on a charge of embezzling more than $22,000 from the West Milton Citizens' National Bank while head cashier there from 1963-1966.

Denver Wells, 46, was indicted in the $34,000 holdup of the Huber Heights branch of the First National Bank of Dayton on April 15, 1968.

The jurors also indicted 20-year-old James W. Wilson of Fairborn on a charge of arson involving a serious fire last April at the Kitty Hawk Bowling Lanes at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

Air Travel Delays Eased As Good Weather Prevails

NEW YORK (AP)—Air travelers are getting up, up and away easier these days, although some slight delays in landings and takeoffs are still reported at major airports.

An Associated Press survey Thursday showed several reasons for the improvement—a seasonal decline in the number of flights, unusually good weather and fewer equipment breakdowns.

A Federal Aviation Administration spokesman at Kennedy Airport said air traffic conditions at New York's metropolitan area airports were "a lot better" than they were during the crowded days of July.

It was in July that the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization—which claims 7,000 members—began a "follow the book" slowdown, strictly enforcing FAA safety rules which are sometimes bent in periods of peak congestion.

The organization is continuing its safety campaign. But other factors apparently have combined to ease crowds.

The FAA spokesman at Kennedy said that delays were limited to from 40 minutes to an hour, and then only during peak travel periods. He said that on Tuesday, for example, there were departure delays of 40 minutes and arrival delays of 35 minutes—nothing like the six and seven hour waits that plagued many passengers earlier this summer.

The FAA officials said the improvement was due to better weather, fewer breakdowns in air controller radar and communications equipment, fewer flights during the late summer season and diversions of some flights from Kennedy to LaGuardia or Newark airports.

At National Airport in Washington, the FAA said there had been no reportable delays—those of over 30 minutes—since the Labor Day weekend. A spokesman said this was because of unusually fine weather and the fact that equipment remained in good working order.

A spokesman at Chicago's O'Hare Airport said delays were only 15 to 30 minutes during peak periods, with no delays at other times. The spokesman said Labor Day traffic was on time because of a light schedule—only 1,400 flights compared to a daily average of 2,100 takeoffs and landings.

Mrs. Smith's kidneys were transplanted to Robert Clapper, 29, Minerva, and Charles Mundy, 21, of Berkeley, Mich. Clapper and Mundy were also reported in satisfactory condition.

Mrs. Lawson said a heart operation was her husband's only hope.

"We nearly lost him several times," she said. "It was only our faith and our prayers and his willpower that kept him alive."

Mrs. Smith died Wednesday from head injuries received when the trailer-truck she was riding in crashed near Cleveland.

Cleveland Heart Transplant Patient's Condition Good

CLEVELAND (AP)—Officials at the Cleveland Clinic today described the condition of heart transplant patient Dellett H. Lawson as "very good and satisfactory."

Lawson, 50, received his new heart Wednesday during a 2½ hour operation at the Cleveland Clinic.

Twelve hours later he managed to sit up for a few seconds and whisper to his wife, Leona, that he felt "just fine."

"At last we have a future to look forward to," Mrs. Lawson, 47, said afterwards. "We have been waiting and praying for this moment for so long."

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NE W YORK (AP) — "The Goldiggers," NBC's youth-oriented summer variety series marched gaily into oblivion with Thursday night's performance. And it will be missed by, among others, a lot of parents and a sprinkling of grandparents. What other show can make a finger-snapping teen turn to a TV-watching parent and say with surprise, "Why, Dad, you know all the words."

The idea of reprieving the old 1930 and 1940 songs in a modern frame worked out to be excellent summer entertainment. There has been plenty of song and dance, pretty good comedy and a nice blithe spirit all around.

There is talk of bringing it back as a midwinter replacement although at the moment it seems that the three networks are overstocked with variety shows.

Next week the hour will be filled with the first of NBC's "On Stage" series of original dramas, Rod Serling's "Certain Honorable Men."

Serling's drama about national politics and politicians—premiere of NBC's answer to "CBS Playhouse"—will be slightly unusual because it will be allowed to run a few minutes beyond its allocated 90 minutes. It will not really mean that the network is planning to abandon the rigid time barriers that chop commercial television into 30, 60, or 90-minute segments. The extra few minutes will run beyond prime time into the late evening newscasts, which are local shows.

It would be difficult to run overtime for even a minute or two in a program broadcast in mid-evening because that would upset the timing for other network shows and, worse, commercials.

At the 11th hour, the producers of next Saturday night's "Miss America Pageant" made their peace with the composer of the show's stirring theme song and Bert Parks as usual will be heard warbling "There She is, Miss America."

For a while it seemed that the pageant, televised annually since 1954, would just not be the same. Composer Bernie Wayne and the pageant management disagreed about royalties for the song and it was decided to drop it.

Bess Myerson, the 1945 Miss America, has been hostess for the past 14 years and Parks has been master of ceremonies and official baritone since 1953.

"What's My Line" after all those years on CBS will be reborn next week as a syndicated series—a daily series sold to local stations. Arlene Francis will be the only member of the original cast and a former ABC newsmen, Wally Bruner, will have John Daly's old moderating job.

The familiar format of the guessing game has been changed. In the new version the guests will demonstrate their occupations, on stage or by film clips.

The FAA officials said the improvement was due to better weather, fewer breakdowns in air controller radar and communications equipment, fewer flights during the late summer season and diversions of some flights from Kennedy to LaGuardia or Newark airports.

At National Airport in Washington, the FAA said there had been no reportable delays—those of over 30 minutes—since the Labor Day weekend. A spokesman said this was because of unusually fine weather and the fact that equipment remained in good working order.

A spokesman at Chicago's O'Hare Airport said delays were only 15 to 30 minutes during peak periods, with no delays at other times. The spokesman said Labor Day traffic was on time because of a light schedule—only 1,400 flights compared to a daily average of 2,100 takeoffs and landings.

Cleveland Heart Transplant Patient's Condition Good

CLEVELAND (AP)—Officials at the Cleveland Clinic today described the condition of heart transplant patient Dellett H. Lawson as "very good and satisfactory."

Lawson, 50, received his new heart Wednesday during a 2½ hour operation at the Cleveland Clinic.

Twelve hours later he managed to sit up for a few seconds and whisper to his wife, Leona, that he felt "just fine."

"At last we have a future to look forward to," Mrs. Lawson, 47, said afterwards. "We have been waiting and praying for this moment for so long."

20 MINUTES FROM LOCKBOURNE

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — "The Goldiggers," NBC's youth oriented summer variety series marched gaily into oblivion with Thursday night's performance.

And it will be missed by, among others, a lot of parents and a sprinkling of grandparants. What other show can make a finger-snapping teen turn to a TV-watching parent and say with surprise, "Why, Dad, you know all the words."

The idea of retrieving the old 1930 and 1940 songs in a modern frame worked out to be excellent summer entertainment. There has been plenty of song and dance, pretty good comedy and a nice blithe spirit all around.

There is talk of bringing it back as a midwinter replacement although at the moment it seems that the three networks are overstocked with variety shows.

Next week the hour will be filled with the first of NBC's "On Stage" series of original dramas, Rod Serling's "Certain Honorable Men."

Serling's drama about national politics and politicians—premiere of NBC's answer to "CBS Playhouse"—will be slightly unusual because it will be allowed to run a few minutes beyond its allocated 90 minutes. It will not really mean that the network is planning to abandon the rigid time barriers that chop commercial television into 30, 60, or 90-minute segments. The extra few minutes will run beyond prime time into the late evening newscasts, which are local shows.

It would be difficult to run overtime for even a minute or two in a program broadcast in mid-evening because that would upset the timing for other network shows and, worse, commercials.

At the 11th hour, the producers of next Saturday night's "Miss America Pageant" made their peace with the composer of the show's stirring theme song and Bert Parks as usual will be heard warbling "There She is, Miss America."

For a while it seemed that the pageant, televised annually since 1954, would just not be the same. Composer Bernie Wayne and the pageant management disagreed about royalties for the song and it was decided to drop it.

Bess Myerson, the 1945 Miss America, has been hostess for the past 14 years and Parks has been master of ceremonies and official baritone since 1955.

"What's My Line" after all those years on CBS will be reborn next week as a syndicated series—a daily series sold to local stations. Arlene Francis will be the only member of the original cast and a former ABC newsmen, Wally Bruner, will have John Daly's old moderating job.

The familiar format of the guessing game has been changed. In the new version the guests will demonstrate their occupations, on stage or by film clips.

NEW YORK (AP) — Does your neighbor proudly have an ornate framed copy of what he blithely calls his family coat of arms hanging in his den or playroom?

Well, alas, the odds are heavily against his having a right to display it as his own, says a British expert in such matters.

"As few as 10 per cent of the people who use coats of arms are historically entitled to them," said Brian Brooks of London, one of the 45-member Association of Genealogists and Record Agents formed to combat fraud in such matters.

"The whole thing has been Association of Genealogists and Record Agents formed to combat fraud in such matters.

"The whole thing has been wide open to charlatanism in the past."

"Coats of arms originated in England and the Continent in the 11th century to distinguish knights in battle. Simply bearing the name of any such knight doesn't entitle you to wear his coat of arms. You must be a descendant of his through the male line."

The English merely smirk tolerantly at people who boast of their phony coats of arms. But not the Scots. In Scotland you can be jailed for a misdemeanor if you wear a family crest you have no right to.

Brooks, a tall, studious bachelor of 40, is a victim of his own research.

"I discovered my mother's family used a coat of arms for generations they weren't entitled to," he remarked. "They were descended from King Edward III, but not in the direct male line."

"I was able to trace my ancestry on my father's side back only to 1726. There I ran into Thomas Brooks, a carter. He chiefly transported manure."

But if there are thousands of Americans who are nonarmigeral—that is, not entitled to armorial bearings—Brooks said there are other thousands who are indeed fully armigeral but don't know it. He charges a fee of $50 to $150 or up to backtrack ancestors.

"It is estimated that of the 200 most common names in America, 183 are of British origin," he said. "Oddly, the commonest names, such as Brown, Smith, Robinson, Thompson, Edwards, or Johnson are the most difficult. Unusual names are easiest to trace."

Brooks said that most of the snobbery current a generation ago in the genealogical field has died out.

"Most people today have a genuine interest in the past. They are searching for roots. They want to check family legends, to find out who they sprang from and where their forebears came from. Of course, some do hope to find they are descended from royalty, and some are."

Others are afraid to pursue their origins for fear that instead of a king, duke or prime minister, they'll find a sheep thief dangling from a limb of their family tree.

The Loch Ness sea serpent has just been sighted again after a long absence. This is probably good news for those like-to-be-scared folk for whom the Scottish lake bugaboo has long been their favorite monster.

The fellow who recently spotted Nessie (as the people of the Loch Ness area fondly nicknamed their monster) has given a good description of beastie.

Nessie, he says, appeared to be 16 feet long, 8 feet high was jet black and had a face like a big sheep.

F. E. F., one of our most faithful readers, says that while he toured the Loch Ness area with his wife and daughter a couple years back, he spotted a lot of "little monsters" with sheep faces. However, they had legs and not fins.

F. E. F., adds that he was wide awake when he spotted all those sheep, and he definitely was not woolgathering!

Incidentally, when it comes to monsters we've always preferred Nessie to Yeti, the Abominable Snowman. That one's just too cold a proposition.

We don't know whether the Loch Ness sea serpent has ever been tamed but it certainly seems to have a great sense of timing—when it does show up it's always been just before or during the tourist season.

THERE'S a sweet young thing on the West Coast who's a mighty unhappy girl these days. When the doctor she was engaged to called the whole thing off, he not only demanded that she return every present he had given her but he also sent her a bill for 61 visits.

Forrest Tucker, making a movie in New York's lower East Side, sought a sandwich in a small delicatessen. It was supplied rather grudgingly, but the proprietor gruffly refused to furnish any mustard. Tucker went back to the set and recruited two extras who were dressed as cops. They handcuffed Tucker, marched him back to the delicatessen and demanded of the owner, "Is this the man who demanded mustard?"

"That's the guy. Why?" asked the owner nervously. The "cops" explained, "He just murdered a man up the street who refused him mustard."

The proprietor produced a bottle of mustard in three seconds flat—then burst into tears.

Bob Considine recalls one erudite fight announcer who grabbed the microphone before one twelve-round bout to identify the veteran challenger as "A man who, like old wine, goes on forever" and then identified the site of the fight as "Pompton Heights—where Washington once slept. Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Many readers are kind enough to write to me and express their gratitude for the hopeful aspects of these columns. This is particularly gratifying because my own medical philosophy insists that there is great hope within the framework of modern medicine and science.

In a recent radio broadcast I was asked by commentator Barry Farber to name a few of the medical accomplishments that made me so hopeful. This was not difficult, especially since I could immediately point out that sixteen or eighteen years of additional life have been given to people living in the United States since the turn of the century. With open-eyed wonderment, I can say that the child born today is destined to live past the age of seventy-five years in the United States. It is truly pathetic that longevity rates in other parts of the world are reduced to twenty to twenty-five years, when it is possible with modern medicine, science, hygiene and nutrition to keep these human beings alive and productive for so many more years.

It is difficult for me to reconcile the hope of modern medical accomplishments with the fact that three to ten thousand human beings, the Ibos in Biafra, are dying daily of protein deficiencies because of the lack of food. Kwashiorkor, a deadly disease due to such protein deficiency, has no right to exist in a world of plenty.

At the University of Washington in Seattle, Dr. Lauren Donaldson, one of America's most famous marine biologists and scientists, has produced a concentrated fish food which can, once and for all, totally eliminate nutritional diseases in under-developed countries. On one hand, we have the food and on the other, we do not use it because these two components are separated mostly by political differences.

Another accomplishment that seemed to impress Mr. Farber, who broadcasted it to his wide audience, was the hopeful data about polio. I repeat it with very great pleasure, especially to those readers who may remember a mere ten years ago how distressing it was when the first case of polio was reported in a community. This terror is now gone, for not one single death from polio has been reported in the United States in 1967 in those children who were completely and adequately vaccinated against this dread disease. This should be sky-written for everyone to see and have imprinted on their consciousness.

Uremia, a most serious condition in which waste products accumulate in the blood because of severe kidney disorders, has been considered a deadly killer. Now, because of the wonderful relationship between all sciences, the engineers, the doctors, the electronic manufacturers and the chemists, the kidney machine or dialyzer is available to everyone and is used at regular intervals to cleanse the blood of the nitrogen waste products that formerly destroyed people too young to die. It was only a few years ago when the kidney machine was so expensive that only a few people could benefit from its life saving gift. Today the machine is actually being made in a disposable unit and can be found in every hospital in the country.

There are almost endless accomplishments that emphasize the hope of this era. Drugs for the control of mental illnesses, drugs for the control and cure of tuberculosis, heart-lung machines to help in heart transplants, vaccinations against measles, mumps, tetanus, polio, diphtheria and a host of other viral diseases, make this century one of scientific wonderment. However, when will man catch up with man and learn to talk together and not destroy each other?

Don't drive the body too long without allowing it to replenish its energy.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Good management, we are constantly reminded, is what gives American corporations the edge over foreign competitors. According to dozens of books on the subject each year, we have turned the management art into a science.

The best selling book in Europe during the past year, in fact, was "The American Challenge," written by a Frenchman who described a situation wherein American industry might dominate Europe because of management know-how.

Management has been described as a fundamentally American skill. Americans have a reputation for being able to identify and analyze problems and then make plans to cope with them. They are said to know how to utilize technology and how to deploy and motivate workers. Americans, according to the popular belief, love to plan ahead.

And yet, talks with management experts who analyze U.S. business practices tell a different story. Americans are skillful in management, they say, but only in a relative sense. More to the point, foreign firms are poorly managed.

American corporations, they say, often are laden with deadends and deadheads, with duplicate effort and useless motion, with slovenly methods and ill-defined goals, and sometimes no knowledge of how to achieve these goals.

American corporations, one of these experts maintains, operate at 65 to 75 per cent efficiency. In other words, they are "C" performers.

This is the estimate of Bruce Payne, who runs a consulting firm of the same name with the usual "and associates" appended. Although the estimate may not be a consensus, it certainly isn't disputed by all consultants.

Most corporations, Payne insists, should be able to grow 10 per cent a year by planning better. But some neither plan nor grow. "Many of them don't even know where they'll be two years from now," he states.

The absence of corporate planning is illustrated by Payne in describing a well known company with sales of more than $2 billion a year that has publicly announced it expects sales to rise 10 per cent a year.

After the announcement, to securities analysts and newsmen, the company realized it had no plan for achieving the sales increase. It had no idea of how it would achieve the goal.

The first question the management consultant asks such a company is: "What business are you in?" and secondly, "What business do you want to be in?" Most companies, the consultants say, don't know who they are.

After that comes the job of setting goals, delimiting the route to the goals and refining the methods to be used. This means understanding the strengths and weakness of the company, the competition, the technology available and the direction of the economy.

Although methods differ, the basic study is likely to include an examination of the company's efficiency. It is incredibly precise. Even the physical motions of individuals, their arm, leg and eye movements, are measured.

In the old days this involved time and motion studies and was much feared by employers, for it often led to layoffs. Watches are seldom used now; instead, charts of premeditated motions are used. And with labor tight, workers seldom are fired.

The aim, so the consultants say, is not to turn workers into machines, nor is it necessarily to make them work harder. The idea is to get more work out of the same or even less effort. The purpose is mainly to eliminate waste.

The Truth About Chicago

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

How do you tell the truth about Chicago? Coming home, I didn't see it in any of the letters to the newspapers on either side.

It is easy to blame the TV camera for the false picture that has been spread. The camera moves in at the last minute, catching a climax of action as someone gets clubbed. But the camera picture, in this instance, is like a photograph of an embrace isolated from any context of a story. You wouldn't know whether it was something between genuine lovers, or an incident in a Red Light district. This is putting it crudely, but I mean to do just that. It is the only way to make the point.

What the camera never told was the story of the endless atmosphere of provocation that pervaded Yippie Chicago. You didn't hear the groundtone swell of "Dump the Hump, Dump the Hump," repeated on and on until you wished you could go deaf. You didn't hear the interminable cop-baiting cries of "Fascist pig," intermingled with epithets that no newspaper would print.

Most important of all to any sensitive person, the TV camera could not convey the sense of smell. The lobby of the Conrad Hilton, where the candidates and their supporters clustered and where the journalists worked, made a pisty seem like Chanel Number Five by comparison. It was a positive relief to go out to the stockyards after getting one whiff of the place. Some foul minded Yippie genius had discovered a chemical that resisted any deodorant. The story of the Newark, New Jersey, girls who spread the chemical was not, to my knowledge, told at the time by TV. It couldn't have been, for the girls worked in secret. Lovable little cusses.

The policemen I interviewed were intelligent men. They were also human beings, subject to exasperation after long hours trying to keep thousands of dirty, foul-mouthed, purposefully exasperating youngsters from breaking the Michigan Avenue lines and getting into the convention hotels. The police had their orders, stemming Co.

from Mayor Daley's fear that some prominent political figure, maybe a candidate, would be assassinated. They also had their worries about what might come out of the upper floors of the Conrad Hilton in spite of the elaborate security. When missiles were actually dropped out of upper story windows, the cops may have acted precipitately in raiding Senator McCarthy's suite. But something worse than tin cans could have been dropped.

Three separate scenes of a mad Chicago week stand out in my mind. The first is one of a hot Saturday afternoon in Lincoln Park. Yippies, hippies, Students for a Democratic Society supporters and others who flaunted their alienation stood around, listening to quasi-military lectures from their leaders on how to push a cop to the brink of anger without getting one's self arrested. The plan was to create incidents that would make Mayor Daley's police look bad. The police, sad to say, walked right into the trap. But this does not justify the chronic cop-baiters.

The second scene is one of a high-minded British journalist telling two policemen that if they would only throw away their guns nothing would happen. The two officers looked at the journalist with blank amazement. Then they looked at each other, as if to ask, "How did this guy ever get out of the nuthouse?" The confrontation had two entirely separate histories behind it. In England, where they never had prohibition with its attendant gangland killings, its St. Valentine's Day massacres, the bobbies are blessed with a peaceful tradition. But Chicago, with its memories of the sawed-off shotgun era, is not England. Luckily Mayor Daley's men have been permitted to retain their sidearms. Unluckily, Britain sends ridiculously parochial journalists to cover U.S. politics.

The third scene that sticks in the memory is of a McCarthy reception after it was all over. The McCarthy people are not to be confused with the Yippies. They reminded me psychologically of the Goldwater people four years ago. There was the same dedicated atmosphere, the same clean-cut lines to the youngsters who shouted "We want Gene" as their predecessors were shouting "We want Barry" in 1964. Where will they be four years from now? The anarchistic Students for a Democratic Society gang will make a pitch for them; it is important that the attempt to wean them away from normal politics shall be made to fail.

At the University of Washington in Seattle, Dr. Lauren Donaldson, one of America's most famous marine biologists and scientists, has produced a concentrated fish food which can, once and for all, totally eliminate nutritional diseases in under-developed countries. On one hand, we have the food and on the other, we do not use it because these two components are separated mostly by political differences.

Another accomplishment that seemed to impress Mr. Farber, who broadcasted it to his wide audience, was the hopeful data about polio. I repeat it with very great pleasure, especially to those readers who may remember a mere ten years ago how distressing it was when the first case of polio was reported in a community. This terror is now gone, for not one single death from polio has been reported in the United States in 1967 in those children who were completely and adequately vaccinated against this dread disease. This should be sky-written for everyone to see and have imprinted on their consciousness.

Uremia, a most serious condition in which waste products accumulate in the blood because of severe kidney disorders, has been considered a deadly killer. Now, because of the wonderful relationship between all sciences, the electronic manufacturers and the chemists, the kidney machine or dialyzer is available to everyone and is used at regular intervals to cleanse the blood of the nitrogen waste products that formerly destroyed people too young to die. It was only a few years ago when the kidney machine was so expensive that only a few people could benefit from its life saving gift. Today the machine is actually being made in a disposable unit and can be found in every hospital in the country.

There are almost endless accomplishments that emphasize the hope of this era. Drugs for the control of mental illnesses, drugs for the control and cure of tuberculosis, heart-lung machines to help in heart transplants, vaccinations against measles, mumps, tetanus, polio, diphtheria and a host of other viral diseases, make this century one of scientific wonderment. However, when will man catch up with man and learn to talk together and not destroy each other?

Don't drive the body too long without allowing it to replenish its energy.

Continue Hearing For 2 Nurses

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A state personnel review board hearing for two former nurses at the Summit County Home was continued here Wednesday until Sept. 18.

Beatrice L. Sherry and Shirley R. Schwan claim oral resignations submitted last month were withdrawn before the county accepted them.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Good management, we are constantly reminded, is what gives American corporations the edge over foreign competitors. According to dozens of books on the subject each year, we have turned the management art into a science.

The best selling book in Europe during the past year, in fact, was "The American Challenge," written by a Frenchman who described a situation wherein American industry might dominate Europe because of management know-how.

Management has been described as a fundamentally American skill. Americans have a reputation for being able to identify and analyze problems and then make plans to cope with them. They are said to know how to utilize technology and how to deploy and motivate workers. Americans, according to the popular belief, love to plan ahead.

And yet, talks with management experts who analyze U.S. business practices tell a different story. Americans are skillful in management, they say, but only in a relative sense. More to the point, foreign firms are poorly managed.

American corporations, they say, often are laden with deadends and deadheads, with duplicate effort and useless motion, with slovenly methods and ill-defined goals, and sometimes no knowledge of how to achieve these goals.

American corporations, one of these experts maintains, operate at 65 to 75 per cent efficiency. In other words, they are "C" performers.

This is the estimate of Bruce Payne, who runs a consulting firm of the same name with the usual "and associates" appended. Although the estimate may not be a consensus, it certainly isn't disputed by all consultants.

Most corporations, Payne insists, should be able to grow 10 per cent a year by planning better. But some neither plan nor grow. "Many of them don't even know where they'll be two years from now," he states.

The absence of corporate planning is illustrated by Payne in describing a well known company with sales of more than $2 billion a year that has publicly announced it expects sales to rise 10 per cent a year.

After the announcement, to securities analysts and newsmen, the company realized it had no plan for achieving the sales increase. It had no idea of how it would achieve the goal.

The first question the management consultant asks such a company is: "What business are you in?" and secondly, "What business do you want to be in?" Most companies, the consultants say, don't know who they are.

After that comes the job of setting goals, delineating the route to the goals and refining the methods to be used. This means understanding the strengths and weakness of the company, the competition, the technology available and the direction of the economy.

Although methods differ, the basic study is likely to include an examination of the company's efficiency. It is incredibly precise. Even the physical motions of individuals, their arm, leg and eye movements, are measured.

In the old days this involved time and motion studies and was much feared by employees, for it often led to layoffs. Watchmen are seldom used now; instead, charts of pretimed motions are used. And with labor tight, workers seldom are fired.

The aim, so the consultants say, is not to turn workers into machines, nor is it necessarily to make them work harder. The idea is to get more work out of the same or even less effort. The purpose is mainly to eliminate waste.

The Truth About Chicago

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

How do you tell the truth about Chicago? Coming home, I didn't see it in any of the letters to the newspapers on either side.

It is easy to blame the TV camera for the false picture that has been spread. The camera moves in at the last minute, catching a climax of action as someone gets clubbed. But the camera picture, in this instance, is like a photograph of an embrace isolated from any context of a story. You wouldn't know whether it was something between genuine lovers, or an incident in a Red Light district. This is putting it crudely, but I mean to do just that. It is the only way to make the point.

What the camera never told was the story of the endless atmosphere of provocation that pervaded Yippie Chicago. You didn't hear the groundtone swell of "Dump the Hump, Dump the Hump," repeated on and on until you wished you could go deaf. You didn't hear the interminable cop-baiting cries of "Fascist pig," intermingled with epithets that no newspaper would print.

Most important of all to any sensitive person, the TV camera could not convey the sense of smell. The lobby of the Conrad Hilton, where the candidates and their supporters clustered and where the journalists worked, made a pizze seem like Chanel Number Five by comparison. It was a positive relief to go out to the stockyards after getting one whiff of the place. Some foul minded Yippie genius had discovered a chemical that resisted any deodorant. The story of the Newark, New Jersey, girls who spread the chemical was not, to my knowledge, told at the time by TV. It couldn't have been, for the girls worked in secret. Lovable little cusses.

The policemen I interviewed were intelligent men. They were also human beings, subject to exasperation after long hours trying to keep thousands of dirty, foul-mouthed, purposefully exasperating youngsters from breaking the Michigan Avenue lines and getting into the convention hotels. The police had their orders, stemming Co.

from Mayor Daley's fear that some prominent political figure, maybe a candidate, would be assassinated. They also had their worries about what might come out of the upper floors of the Conrad Hilton in spite of the elaborate security. When missiles were actually dropped out of upper story windows, the cops may have acted precipitately in raiding Senator McCarthy's suite. But something worse than tin cans could have been dropped.

Three separate scenes of a mad Chicago week stand out in my mind. The first is one of a hot Saturday afternoon in Lincoln Park. Yippies, hippies, Students for a Democratic Society supporters and others who flaunted their alienation stood around, listening to quasi-military lectures from their leaders on how to push a cop to the brink of anger without getting one's self arrested. The plan was to create incidents that would make Mayor Daley's police look bad. The police, sad to say, walked right into the trap. But this does not justify the chronic cop-baiters.

The second scene is one of a high-minded British journalist telling two policemen that if they would only throw away their guns nothing would happen. The two officers looked at the journalist with blank amazement. Then they looked at each other, as if to ask, "How did this guy ever get out of the nuthouse?" The confrontation had two entirely separate histories behind it. In England, where they never had prohibition with its attendant gangland killings, its St. Valentine's Day massacres, the bobbies are blessed with a peaceful tradition. But Chicago, with its memories of the sawed-off shotgun era, is not England. Luckily Mayor Daley's men have been permitted to retain their sidearms. Unluckily, Britain sends ridiculously parochial journalists to cover U.S. politics.

The third scene that sticks in the memory is of a McCarthy reception after it was all over. The McCarthy people are not to be confused with the Yippies. They reminded me psychologically of the Goldwater people four years ago. There was the same dedicated atmosphere, the same clean-cut lines to the youngsters who shouted "We want Gene" as their predecessors were shouting "We want Barry" in 1964. Where will they be four years from now? The anarchistic Students for a Democratic Society gang will make a pitch for them; it is important that the attempt to wean them away from normal politics shall be made to fail.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

14-Year-Old Girl Hates Her Mother

DEAR ABBY: I suppose you will throw this in your waste paper basket, but I am going to have my say anyway, and I hope it doesn't shock you. I am a 14-year-old girl and my problem is my mother. I hate her. It may sound terrible to you, but I really HATE her. I used to think I would get over it, but I know now I never will.

Sometimes I think I will go out of my mind if she doesn't quit picking on me. I never do anything to suit her. She doesn't like my clothes, my hair, my friends or anything.

My friends are not bums, either. They are good kids and they aren't wild or on pot or anything like that, but my mother says they look like hippies, and they aren't.

Please help me, Abby, before I run away from home. I cry myself to sleep at night because my mother is so hateful. If I babysit she makes me put the money in the bank. Other girls can buy records or do whatever they want with the money they earn.

Don't tell me to talk to my father. He's always on her side. And don't tell me my mother "loves" me and is only doing things for my own good. If you print my letter, don't sign my name or I'll get killed.

Auditions Set For Circleville Boys Choir

Thursday evening a meeting will be held at the St. Philip's Parish Hall for persons interested in singing in a Circleville Boys' Choir.

This project is under the direction of Paul M. Dunkle who will be in charge of the choir.

Membership in the choir will be through audition only and will be limited to 40 boys. Students in grades, four, five six and seven in the Circleville City Schools will be eligible to audition.

At this meeting Dunkle will explain to parents the purpose of the group, the rules, plans and auditioning of singers.

It is imperative that the boys interested in joining this choir be in attendance with one or both parents as this will be the only audition for 1968. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Becomes Father And Grandfather

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — Walter Hensley became a father and grandfather Wednesday.

Hensley, 45, threw a kiss to his fifth child—a girl—and then dashed to the bedside of his 19-year-old daughter, Mrs. James Carter, who gave birth to a boy.

Hospital authorities reported mothers and babies, and Hensley, coming along fine.

Inventor S. Sergius Vernet Dies

YELLOW SPRINGS, Ohio (AP)—S. Sergius Vernet, an inventor and businessman who was generous to education as a philanthropist, died Thursday.

He died at Community Hospital in Springfield after suffering a heart attack at his home here. He was in his 70s.

Vernet sold about half of his some 100 patents. Many of his inventions were in the automotive industry, and they included the Vernitherm, a thermostat used in automobile engines, airplanes and appliances.

Vernet worked for the Franklin Motor Co. of Syracuse, N.Y., before going into business for himself, first in New York City and since 1934 here. He founded Vernay Laboratories here in 1946. The company employs about 250 persons in research and also in the manufacturing of molded rubber parts.

Other Vernet inventions over the past 50 years included a cold weather carburetor, an automatic engine starter, automatic windshield wipers and a cooling device for air-cooled engines.

It was estimated recently that Vernet gave over $500,000 in gifts to education, including Antioch College in Yellow Springs, the Yellow Springs public schools and the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges.

He had been a trustee of Antioch since 1951.

Survivors include his widow, Suzanne, and two children, Debbie and Sergius Jr.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete today.

'Scientology Movement' Rouses British Storm

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer

EAST GRINSTEAD, England (AP) — "They say we have orgies here," said the young Englishman, pointing at the swimming pool. "We're too busy to have orgies—we don't even have time to go swimming."

This was at the country mansion once owned by the Maharajah of Jaipur. It is now headquarters of the Scientology movement, a semireligious organization from the United States. This "largest mental health organization in the world," as it calls itself, has become a storm center in Britain. Villagers in East Grinstead, a centuries-old market center 30 miles from London, seek a ban on the Scientologists, claiming they spread their influence in the town.

London's press has campaigned against the movement.

Health Minister Kenneth Robinson last month denounced Scientology as "socially harmful... a potential menace," and moved to keep foreigners from coming to Britain as students enrolled at the College of Scientology here.

"We used to get about 100 letters a day, most of them abusive," said David Gaiman, spokesman for the College of Scientology. "Now we get from 300 to 1,000 a day and none of them are abusive—they ask for information."

"We are in very nice shape despite the campaign," said Gaiman, surveying the swimming pool, the 200-year-old manor house, a newly built stone castle filled with classrooms, all surrounded by 40 acres of rolling grounds.

The health minister has refused to disclose what he called government evidence against Scientology. The Scientologists say no government representative has ever come to East Grinstead to hold an investigation.

In Parliament Robinson said Scientology "alienates members of families from each other and attributes squalid and disgraceful motives to all who oppose it. Its authoritarian principles and practices are a potential menace to the personality and well-being of those so deluded as to become its followers."

Scientology's founder, American science fiction writer L. Ron Hubbard, 57, is barred from returning to England. He moved his headquarters here 11 years ago but now reportedly lives aboard a yacht in the Mediterranean.

Scientology calls itself "a practical religious philosophy interested in ability and increasing it... the most vital philosophic movement on the planet... the freeing of the soul by wisdom." Its publications contend it makes people "more aware, more alert, more successful." It has groups in the United States and around the world and claims millions of members.

The East Grinstead college has 200 to 300 students and a staff of about 150. Roughly half the students and staff come from outside Britain. The government restrictions ruled foreign students or staff members would no longer be admitted to Britain or allowed to prolong their stay.

Gaiman said Scientology has more than 100,000 members in Britain.

Pickaway Youth Grange

A summer picnic at the home of Eddie Crites was the scene of the Pickaway County Grange Youth meeting for September.

Members of three granges were present for the business portion of the meeting in charge of the president, Phil Judy.

After the reports, discussions were held concerning the installation team, card party, and fall activities of the group. The members were reminded that the card party will be served Sept. 14. All members are urged to attend this event to work in the kitchen and the card room.

It was decided to begin work on the installation team. The youth director will be in charge of the rehearsals which will be announced later this month.

A new member of the group, Rob Archer, was introduced and welcomed into the organization.

The next meeting will be Oct. 7, at the home of Debbie and Rob Archer, beginning at 7:30 p.m. At this meeting the election of officers for 1969 will be held.

Senate Leaders Say Fortas Nomination Hopes Dimmer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders are taking an increasingly dim view of Abe Fortas' chances for confirmation as chief justice and raise the possibility his nomination will die in committee.

President Johnson, however, is pictured as still hopeful Fortas will make it and as giving no indication he might withdraw the nomination.

Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois indicated Thursday that opponents may succeed in keeping the nomination locked up in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Although Dirksen is supporting the nomination and is the senior Republican on the committee, he said a filibuster in the committee is "the kind you cannot lick."

This is because it is easy for opponents on the committee to keep talking until a meeting is cut off by the start of Senate sessions, Dirksen said.

Under the rules, committees are barred from meeting while the Senate is in session except by unanimous consent.

"I'd say the opposition has hardened and may well have increased," said Majority Leader Mike Mansfield. He termed Fortas' chances of confirmation to succeed Earl Warren "not encouraging."

Mansfield said he just didn't know when the committee might act on the nomination. Dirksen and Mansfield commented at separate sessions that even if the nomination gets out of the judiciary committee, it is doubtful if the necessary two-thirds majority could be obtained to break a filibuster in the Senate.

Stalled by the controversy over Fortas' appointment is Johnson's nomination of another old friend, Federal Judge Homer Thornberry, to be an associate justice of the Supreme Court.

Unless Fortas is confirmed, there won't be any vacancy on the court for Thornberry to fill since Warren has made his retirement contingent on approval of a successor.

Some of the giant tortoises on the Galapagos Islands weigh as much as 500 pounds and are thought to be 200 years old.

Where the Fish Are

Granddad loves to fish. Secretly, I think he likes to talk about it equally as well. He spends hours with his friends arguing the pros and cons of "angling." The other day I overheard a lengthy controversy about the best place to fish. Granddad ended the whole matter with these words of wit and wisdom, "If you ask me, the best spot to fish is out there where the fish are—so let's get going!"

This special brand of humor greatly appealed to all of his friends and it remained in my mind long after they had left. It seemed to answer those nature lovers who claim that they can worship God out of doors as well as in church. For certainly, the best spot to worship God is where God is.

Worship means not only moments of adoration and praise but also thoughts channeled toward God. The Church has the living presence of the Lord and inspires spiritual thoughts through hymn, prayer and litany.

Yes, the best place to lift up the heart is in the house of God.

WILLIAMSPORT NEWS

By Ron Beatty — Phone 986-2581

Did you know that Ronnie Bush got banged up in a wreck on his motorcycle near Newark? Paul Bivens went up and brought the motorcycle back for Ronnie. As he was parking it at home, it fell over and broke Paul's arm. Crimenities!

Whoever lost the big tractor tire in my yard can come and get it. No identification needed. I've heard of getting rolled, but this is ridiculous.

Summer is over for the children since school has started and I asked them what they remember best. For the fifth grader, it was a ball game won 8-7 after trailing by three runs with two out in the bottom of the last inning. Also a trip to see Cincinnati and St. Louis play ball... only thing was, we lost. He remembered too, and went off the high dive.

For the eighth grader, it was church camp and a trip to Nebraska. She remembered an incident in the Chicago train station when she set her purse down to read a sign. Some kindly old lady who spoke broken English tried to illustrate what could happen by her inattention to the purse. "You lookee up, I takee your purse," she said, grabbing hold of it. Cindy misunderstood her intentions and they had quite a round for awhile.

The ninth grader particularly enjoyed skiing at Deercreek Reservoir with some good neighbors. Baseball was a big thing too, and the day he got his home run, he doesn't forget. The eleventh grader, more sophisticated and worldly and no longer easily impressed, was glad to be rid of homework and happy making money at a summer job.

I remember trying to raise a garden out on a farm. We planted potatoes, peas, green beans, lima beans, tomatoes, cabbage and corn. The groundhogs and rabbits ate everything but the potatoes and corn. The coons ate the corn. The real good part is that they saved us the potatoes. Next year, everything is going underground.

These were just a few of the things we did this summer that we enjoyed. You probably have memories of this summer that you will always recall. Certain things hang on for years. Do you have memories similar to these? Remember the time you found ten dollars that you hid in a billfold and had forgotten about. The time you thought a repair bill might be two hundred dollars and it was only twenty dollars. Remember when the girls were going to teach the boys to dance at school. They lined up and paired off at the head of the line. Just as you were about to get stuck with a crowd, the prettiest girl in school crowded in. Remember when you met the girl you almost married at a class reunion and she weighed 300 lbs.

You guys that were in the service have lots of memories. Remember the first trip home with a comrade. You were naive and concerned about your luggage. You must have changed buses ten times and you watched to see that they moved your bag. He made remarks like "old mother hen," etc. When you arrived in town, you claimed yours. He stepped up to get his. No luggage. Ha!

Remember when in boot camp you and none others volunteered for a tree planting detail. They said that wasn't enough, took those that hadn't volunteered, and let you off scot free. Remember when the big bully of the outfit fainted in the shot line. How about going overseas when everyone else got seasick and you didn't? How about the first time you said something in a foreign language that a native understood?

Remember the time you fished all day and didn't catch anything. Ready to quit, you cast one last time and caught a five pound bass. Remember the time your horse came in second, but they disqualified the winner? When you hadn't won a game all year and the third string quarterback ran 90 yards for the winning touch down in the last ten seconds?

Future Bright for Robot Crawlers

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the dead of night a small army of robot crawlers rings an enemy camp and moves forward in an ever-tightening circle.

On radioed command, machine guns mounted amid their spidery legs start a lethal cross-fire. Some of the advancing horde move on into key points and detonate their explosive burdens.

Result: An entire outpost wiped out, with not a single human casualty to the attacking force.

How? The "creepies" are mechanical monsters, squat, eight-legged and capable of carrying five times their 100 pound weight over rugged ground.

Their inventor calls them CRABS, for Crawling Robot Attack Beds. One has been built and test-fired. Whether more will be made and used in combat awaits the decision of military authorities.

An intriguing story, of adaptation of space technology to far-flung fields, lies behind the development of the CRAB, now just one of many types of vehicles utilizing its weird mode of locomotion.

The insect-like walker was designed almost a decade ago as a remote-control device to move on the surface of the moon, then believed to be hard and rocky. It was shelved when scientists theorized the moon might be covered with a deep layer of powdery dust, and that a vehicle with fat wheels would be better than a walker.

Since then, soft-landing Surveyor spacecraft with trenchers have shown the lunar surface is much like packed sand, and an advanced CRAB has been proposed to carry two astronauts and their gear.

During the lull in the lunar walker's development, designers at Aerojet-General Corp.'s space division found other applications.

The first was a mobile chair for invalids. In place of wheels, it had two flexing metal legs at each corner of the vehicle. Battery-powered and gear-driven, the legs could do something no wheel chair could do: step up on a curb without assistance. It was stable, because four of the eight foot-like pads at the bottom of each leg were on the ground at any given time. The pads, two at each corner, moved forward one after the other in a slow walk.

Aerojet designer Al Morrison

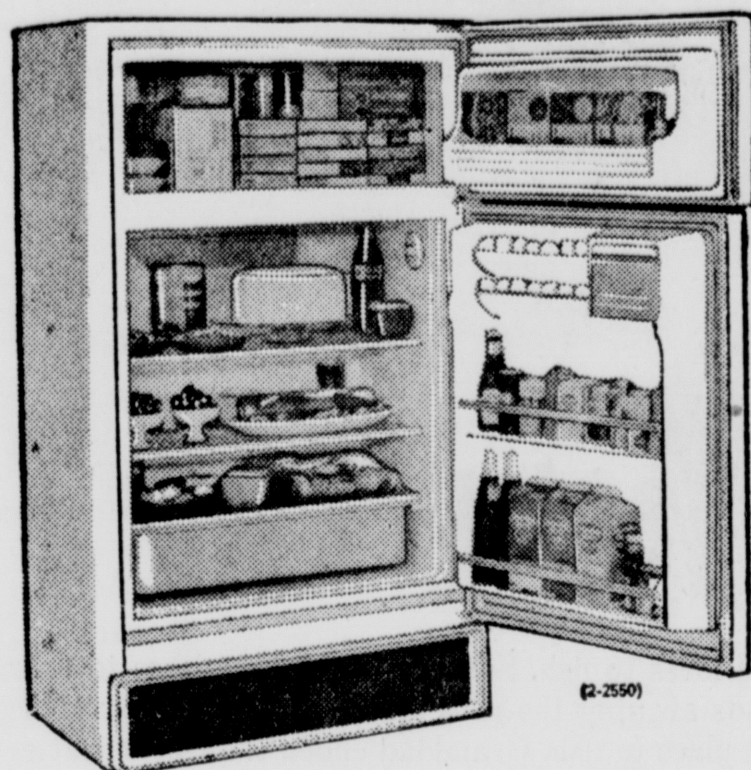

says a new chair, with wheels that can be lowered to carry the invalid as fast as five m.p.h. on a level surface, is being developed.

Motorized wheel chairs with electric arm and tongue controls cost $3,700. One of the designers, Ernest Bontrager, figures a chair convertible to either wheels or legs and equipped with either intraoral or sight controls will cost $4,000 and $5,000 and should be ready within a year.

"I know $5,000 sounds like a lot of money," Bontrager says, "but it means the patient can go home and stop paying $70 a day for hospital care. The chairs pay for themselves in three months."

WILLIAMSPORT NEWS

By Ron Beatty — Phone 986-2581

Did you know that Ronnie Bush got banged up in a wreck on his motorcycle near Newark? Paul Bivens went up and brought the motorcycle back for Ronnie. As he was parking it at home, it fell over and broke Paul's arm. Crimenentlies!

Whoever lost the big tractor tire in my yard can come and get it. No identification needed. I've heard of getting rolled, but this is ridiculous.

Summer is over for the children since school has started and I asked them what they remember best. For the fifth grader, it was a ball game won 8-7 after trailing by three runs with two out in the bottom of the last inning. Also a trip to see Cincinnati and St. Louis play ball... only thing was, we lost. He remembered too, and went off the high dive.

For the eighth grader, it was church camp and a trip to Nebraska. She remembered an incident in the Chicago train station when she set her purse down to read a sign. Some kindly old lady who spoke broken English tried to illustrate what could happen by her inattention to the purse. "You lookee up, I takee your purse," she said, grabbing hold of it. Cindy misunderstood her intentions and they had quite a round for awhile.

The ninth grader particularly enjoyed skiing at Deercreek Reservoir with some good neighbors. Baseball was a big thing too, and the day he got his home run, he doesn't forget. The eleventh grader, more sophisticated and worldly and no longer easily impressed, was glad to be rid of homework and happy making money at a summer job.

I remember trying to raise a garden out on a farm. We planted potatoes, peas, green beans, lima beans, tomatoes, cabbage and corn. The groundhogs and rabbits ate everything but the potatoes and corn. The coons ate the corn. The real good part is that they saved us the potatoes. Next year, everything is going underground.

These were just a few of the things we did this summer that we enjoyed. You probably have memories of this summer that you will always recall. Certain things hang on for years. Do you have memories similar to these? Remember the time you found ten dollars that you hid in a billfold and had forgotten about. The time you thought a repair bill might be two hundred dollars and it was only twenty dollars. Remember when the girls were going to teach the boys to dance at school. They lined up and paired off at the head of the line. Just as you were about to get stuck with a crowd, the prettiest girl in school crowded in. Remember when you met the girl you almost married at a class reunion and she weighed 300 lbs.

You guys that were in the service have lots of memories. Remember the first trip home with a comrade. You were naive and concerned about your luggage. You must have changed buses ten times and you watched to see that they moved your bag. He made remarks like "old mother hen," etc. When you arrived in town, you claimed yours. He stepped up to get his. No luggage. Ha!

Remember when in boot camp you and none others volunteered for a tree planting detail. They said that wasn't enough, took those that hadn't volunteered, and let you off scot free. Remember when the big bully of the outfit fainted in the shot line. How about going overseas when everyone else got seasick and you didn't? How about the first time you said something in a foreign language that a native understood?

Remember the time you fished all day and didn't catch anything. Ready to quit, you cast one last time and caught a five pound bass. Remember the time your horse came in second, but they disqualified the winner? When you hadn't won a game all year and the third string quarterback ran 90 yards for the winning touch down in the last ten seconds?

Future Bright for Robot Crawlers

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In the dead of night a small army of robot crawlers rings an enemy camp and moves forward in an ever-tightening circle.

On radioed command, machine guns mounted amid their spidery legs start a lethal cross-fire. Some of the advancing horde move on into key points and detonate their explosive burdens.

Result: An entire outpost wiped out, with not a single human casualty to the attacking force.

How? The "creepies" are mechanical monsters, squat, eight-legged and capable of carrying five times their 100 pound weight over rugged ground.

Their inventor calls them CRABS, for Crawling Robot Attack Beds. One has been built and test-fired. Whether more will be made and used in combat awaits the decision of military authorities.

An intriguing story, of adaptation of space technology to far-flung fields, lies behind the development of the CRAB, now just one of many types of vehicles utilizing its weird mode of locomotion.

The insect-like walker was designed almost a decade ago as a remote-control device to move on the surface of the moon, then believed to be hard and rocky. It was shelved when scientists theorized the moon might be covered with a deep layer of powdery dust, and that a vehicle with fat wheels would be better than a walker.

Since then, soft-landing Surveyor spacecraft with trenchers have shown the lunar surface is much like packed sand, and an advanced CRAB has been proposed to carry two astronauts and their gear.

During the lull in the lunar walker's development, designers at Aerojet-General Corp.'s space division found other applications.

The first was a mobile chair for invalids. In place of wheels, it had two flexing metal legs at each corner of the vehicle. Battery-powered and gear-driven, the legs could do something no wheel chair could do: step up on a curb without assistance. It was stable, because four of the eight foot-like pads at the bottom of each leg were on the ground at any given time. The pads, two at each corner, moved forward one after the other in a slow walk.

says a new chair, with wheels that can be lowered to carry the invalid as fast as five m.p.h. on a level surface, is being developed.

Motorized wheel chairs with electric arm and tongue controls cost $3,700. One of the designers, Ernest Bontrager, figures a chair convertible to either wheels or legs and equipped with either intraoral or sight controls will cost $4,000 and $5,000 and should be ready within a year.

"I know $5,000 sounds like a lot of money," Bontrager says, "but it means the patient can go home and stop paying $70 a day for hospital care. The chairs pay for themselves in three months."

A View of the City Jail

Circleville has a City Jail, at least it is called a jail. While this topic is certainly not as exciting as many that could be discussed, nor will it stir the emotions, it nevertheless, is important. The people of Circleville should be aware of the conditions that exist.

The old saying that one look is worth a thousand words was never more true. No improvements have been made for years, and instead deterioration has been allowed.

The furniture consists of one wooden bench. The sanitary facilities consist of one stool for which there is no lid, and there is no hand basin or bathing facilities. Drinking water must be brought into the jail in a plastic bucket.

The Circleville City Board of Health first condemned the City Jail more than ten years ago, as it did not meet minimum sanitary health standards. The Pickaway County Board of Visitors, an inspection board created by state statute to insure proper treatment in governmental institutions, has given notice that they consider the City Jail below necessary standards.

It is certainly not safe nor justified to say that anyone who ends up in jail deserves whatever conditions exist. If someone is arrested for a minor offense and can not make the necessary bail immediately, then he must be placed in this jail. That someone could be you, your wife, or a member of your family. A wrongdoer must expect that he may be placed in jail. This does not mean, however, that he should have to be subjected to unfit and unsanitary conditions.

Esther Saves Her People

A SERIES OF MINOR INCIDENTS COMBINE TO SAVE A MULTITUDE FROM DESTRUCTION

Scripture—Esther 1-8.

THE BOOK OF Esther, the Bible's "historical novel," was evidently prepared to explain, from history, the origin and object of the festival of Purim. Although the entire historical character of the book is open to question, there may have been sufficient evidence of its succession of events to warrant the inclusion of Purim in the Jews' festival calendar.

While the book offers a most remarkable illustration of the overruling providence of God, His name does not appear anywhere in the book, a fact which caused long discussion over whether it should be included in the Bible. The omission of God's name may have been intentional, however, to avoid irreverence, since the holiday was probably heathen in origin and was more secular than religious in tone.

It is named for its principal character, a Jewish woman who became the queen of Xerxes, king of Persia, and whose name was changed from the Hebrew Hadassah to the Persian Esther. According to its story the festival of Purim celebrates the Jews' deliverance — with the aid of Esther — from Haman's plot to destroy them as a people.

"For if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall there enlargement and deliverance arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed: and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"—Esther 4:14.

When the book opens, King Xerxes (Xerxes) is giving a great feast for all the nobles and princes of his kingdom. It lasted 180 days and its purpose was to consider the conquest of Greece, for which the king had been preparing for four years.

In the midst of their drunken revelry the king called for Queen Vashti in order to show off her magnificent beauty. This was something a Persian woman would not tolerate and she refused to appear, making the king a laughingstock. To save face he deposed Vashti as his queen.

Two years later — after the battles of Thermopylae and Salamis — the king made Esther his queen, not knowing she was Jewish. Esther, an orphan, had been raised by her cousin Mordecai, who, for reasons unknown, charged her to remain silent regarding her nationality. Soon after Esther had been made queen, Mordecai overheard a plot against the king's life. He reported it to Esther, who relayed it to the king. The existence of the plot was confirmed.

Big Boom in Auto Leasing Just Getting Off Ground

By A. F. MAHAN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Sometime within the 1970s half the people sitting behind automobile steering wheels in the United States won't own the car they're driving, William S. Pickett, sales vice president of American Motors Corp., says.

Pickett says the cars the drivers won't own will be those from company fleets, you-drive-it rentals or those leased, rather than bought, from dealers or others.

The reason, he said, is the snowballing sales of lease, rental and fleet cars.

Some others within the industry and even within Pickett's own company suggest his forecast of 50 per cent before 1980 is high, but such sales already account for something like 12 per cent and most industry executives anticipate growth.

Clyde Sutton, assistant sales manager of McCullagh Leasing Inc., of Detroit, agrees with Pickett that possibly 50 per cent won't own the cars they're driving by 1980, and he pictures the leasing business as "growing by leaps and bounds."

"We think," Sutton said, "we honestly can show an individual it is cheaper to lease than to buy. Leases are adaptable to almost any given situation or condition. Leasing amounts to one-stop shopping and there's a minimum amount of pressure."

American Motors now has 141 dealers who lease, as well as sell cars. Chrysler reports 291 dealers in its leasing system with 70,000 vehicles under lease and the business growing at the rate of 10 per cent yearly. Ford reported 2,460 leasing dealers.

GM had no figures immediately available on the number of leasing dealers, but likely has more than the others, since it has many more dealers to begin with.

A View of the City Jail

By MAYOR RICHARD L. GERHARDT

Circleville has a City Jail, at least it is called a jail. While this topic is certainly not as exciting as many that could be discussed, nor will it stir the emotions, it nevertheless, is important. The people of Circleville should be aware of the conditions that exist.

The old saying that one look is worth a thousand words was never more true. No improvements have been made for years, and instead deterioration has been allowed.

The furniture consists of one wooden bench. The sanitary facilities consist of one stool for which there is no lid, and there is no hand basin or bathing facilities. Drinking water must be brought into the jail in a plastic bucket.

The Circleville City Board of Health first condemned the City Jail more than ten years ago, as it did not meet minimum sanitary health standards. The Pickaway County Board of Visitors, an inspection board created by state statute to insure proper treatment in governmental institutions, has given notice that they consider the City Jail below necessary standards.

It is certainly not safe nor justified to say that anyone who ends up in jail deserves whatever conditions exist. If someone is arrested for a minor offense and can not make the necessary bail immediately, then he must be placed in this jail. That someone could be you, your wife, or a member of your family. A wrongdoer must expect that he may be placed in jail. This does not mean, however, that he should have to be subjected to unfit and unsanitary conditions.

The question then arises to what can be done to eliminate these conditions. The simplest answer would be to close the City Jail and put all our prisoners in the County Jail. However, this solution is just too simple to have been true. The County Jail already is facing many of the problems that the City Jail does, and in talking with the County officials, they have indicated that such an arrangement is not presently possible.

The other solution is to fix up our present jail. This was recommended formally to Council last Tuesday. We have discussed the jail condition before with the Safety Committee, but had made no specific recommendation. Preliminary estimates show that one side of the jail could be refurbished to meet minimum health standards for around $1,500.

We invite any interested citizen to come down to City Hall and we will show them personally, the jail conditions that exist. Every man is innocent until proven guilty and we shall always respect his rights, including that of being incarcerated in a fit and sanitary jail.

firmed and the conspirators were hanged. This seemingly insignificant event was later to prove important.

Xerxes' chief minister was a vain, evil man named Haman. In some way he had won such royal favor that a command was issued ordering all servants and those gathered at the king's gate to bow in obeisance to him. Mordecai refused and this annoyed Haman, who determined to have Mordecai done away with. Ostensibly he sought revenge only on Mordecai, but his plotting actually included a total massacre of the realm's entire Jewish population.

Haman told the king that his Jewish subjects were a threat to him because they adhered to their own laws and customs. He would remove the threat by destroying the people and, out of their confiscated property would give the king 10,000 silver talents (an estimated $19,400,000.). The king fell for the plot and signed a decree ordering all Jewish adults and children and their property taken.

Hearing of the plot and the king's decree, Esther sent a servant to Mordecai to find out what was happening and why the Jews were being made scapegoats. Thus she discovered Haman's treachery and Mordecai urged her to use her position as queen to save her people, though going unbidden into the king's presence meant risking her own life.

Naturally she was afraid, but found courage and guidance through prayer and fasting. She made a favorable impression upon the king and brought to his attention that Haman's sinister plotting included the palace and her very life. The king acted quickly, ordering Haman hanged on the gallows he had prepared for Mordecai and giving Mordecai the honors Haman had expected to receive. However, he could not revoke his previous decree against the Jews. Instead he permitted the Jews to defend themselves and also to take vengeance upon those who came to destroy them, which they did.

To celebrate this victory and their deliverance a time was set for "feasting and joy" and "of sending portions one to another and gifts to the poor." It was called Purim.

Advocates of leasing list these advantages: No capital investment through down payment, no worry about used car values at trade-in time, a possible tax write-off for business people, a new car every year or two and cheaper insurance and no repair bills in some deals.

The increase in car renting is reflected in gross sales of Hertz Corp. for example, which have risen from $138 million in 1961 to an estimated $375 million last year. This year they will have about 115,000 vehicles on the road.

Avis Rent-A-Car also has shown record growth, with sales up from $25 million in 1961 to $140 million last year. This year it will put 85,000 vehicles on the road, compared to 10,000 seven years ago.

One man leasing his car said he paid $95 monthly on a two-year lease two-door hardtop, receiving full maintenance by the dealer and both personal liability and property damage insurance coverage.

Had he bought the same car comparably equipped without a down payment and over a 36-month contract he said it would have cost him $105 a month, and by leasing, he added, "I didn't have to dip into saving for a down payment, I'll have a new car every two years and no worries or extra added expenses."

Packers, Rams Head NFL West Choice.

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Phil
Lombardi rated a bonus after outstanding Green Bay's dynamic defense for nine National Football League seasons.

So Vince Lombardi gave him the Packers' high-powered offense too.

Coach Bengtson plans to express his gratitude this winter by presenting ex-coach Lombardi with an unprecedented fourth straight NFL championship. General Manager Lombar-di will settle for nothing less.

Jim Dooley, Chicago's defensive genius for the past two seasons and successor to Papa Bear George Halas as head coach this year, has other ideas.
But the brawny Bears likely will have to settle for the runnerup spot in the Central Division.

The Los Angeles Rams and Baltimore Colts, who won every game they had to last year—except one, figure to slug it out for the Coastal Division crown again, with the Rams rated a slim choice to repeat.

Here's how the Western Conference races could wind up:

Central

1. Green Bay

2. Chicago
3. Detroit
4. Minnesota
Coastal

1. Los Angeles
2. Baltimore
3. San Francisco
4. Atlanta

Green Bay's Central Division foes won't miss Lombardi, who has given up his dual role of general manager-coach to concentrate on front office business. Before the season ends, they'll probably wish the boss had offered a desk job to quarterback Bart Starr.

The peerless play-caller, who has led the Packers to five league titles and two Super Bowl triumphs during the nine-year Lombardi era, could be headed for a peak season. He missed all or part of six games in 1967 with injuries, but took charge in the big money playoffs against Los Angeles, Dallas and Oakland.

Lake the Bears, Detroit will be formidable on defense. The Lions unveiled two rookie standouts—running back Mel Farr and defensive back Lem Barney —in 1967 and are counting on ex-Los Angeles quarterback Bill
Munson to make the attack go.
With Alex Karras up front, the Lions' defense won't be pushed around by anyone.

Minnesota hopes to break its two-year lease on the Central cellar behind quarterback Gary Cuzzo, picked up from New Orleans, and an improving young defensive unit. But there are too many superior clubs in their path.

The Rams scored more points and yielded less than any NFL team last year on the way to an 11-1-2 finish. The emergence of Roman Gabriel as a winning quarterback and the ferocity of the Fearsome Foursome—Deacon Jones, Lamar Lundy, Merlin Olsen and Roger Brown—carried them past everyone but Green Bay, a 28-7 victory in the Western title game.

The Colts, triggered by the incomparable Johnny Unitas, were unbeatable for 13 games last year, then fell to the Rams in their Coastal finale at Los Angeles. If Timmy Brown, obtained in a deal with Philadelphia, runs to daylight and last year's casualties, including big Bubba Smith, bounce back, there could be no stopping the 1968 herd.

San Francisco, caught in the middle of the Baltimore-Los Angeles battle royal last year, might make the upcoming race
a three-way affair if new Coach Dick Nolan finds the depth he's been looking for in the 49ers' offensive and defensive lines.

Atlanta won three games in 1966, its first year in the NFL.
But the Falcons dipped to 1-12-1 last season, prompting Coach Norb Hecker to launch a rebuilding program. He'll go with his youngsters this year, hoping to scratch out a couple of upsets but looking ahead to 1969.

Bengals Open AFL Season As Others Play Exhibitions

By MIKE BRYSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Cincinnati will find out if a couple of preseason surprises mean anything in the first play-for-keeps match, while the prestige of the venerable National Football League is at stake in a couple of games that don't mean anything this weekend.

In a quirk of scheduling, the expansion Bengals open the American League campaign at San Diego Friday night before most of the other pro teams wrap up exhibition activity.

The Bengals, rated two touchdown underdogs in the game to be nationally televised by the National Broadcasting Co. at 8:30 p.m., pulled off a couple of upsets in their last two exhibitions—beating Pittsburgh and the New York Jets.

Two other AFL openers also are on tap during the weekend.
Boston is at Buffalo Sunday, while two top threats—Kansas City's Western Division runners-up and Houston's defending Eastern titlists—meet at Houston Monday night, both games will be televised nationally by NBC.

In addition, there are 10 exhibitions Friday night and Saturday—including two interleague tests. And, the NFL will have to win both to accomplish a little face saving.

Because of Joe Namath's injured knee, Detroit, NFL, is favored to stop the New York Jets, AFL, in the first game of a doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday night. But a showdown the same evening between the Atlanta Falcons, NFL, at Miami, AFL, is rated a toss-up.

Three NFL exhibitions are scheduled Friday night: Minnesota vs. New Orleans at Shreveport, La., St. Louis at Chicago and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

Green Bay's champions collide with the Browns in the second game of the doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday night, while New York plays Philadelphia in the afternoon at Princeton, N.J.; Baltimore is at Dallas, and Pittsburgh plays Washington at Norfolk, Va.

Denver meets Oakland at Portland, Ore., in an AFL exhibition Saturday night.
The NFL swings into regular season play Saturday, Sept. 14, with Atlanta at Minnesota.

Billiard League Opens 6th Year

The Tuesday Billiard League will begin its sixth year with an organizational meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Circle D Lanes.

In the past the handicap league was composed of six two-man teams. This year hopes are for a ten-team league, according to president Bob Wilkinson. First night of the league will be Sept. 17.

The season, which ends around the first of March, features a year-end banquet with trophies honoring high teams and high individual runs and series. Highlight is an open tournament at the end of the season.

Anyone interested in joining the league should attend the organizational meeting or contact Wilkinson, league treasurer Dean Bushee or league secretary Bob Mac-Fadden.

Gets Tagged Fish

T. C. Thomas of Circleville reports taking a tagged walleye from Big Darby Creek on August 25.

The fish which weighed 24 pounds and was 18½ inches long had been tagged in Hoover Reservoir April 5, 1968
by the Inland Fish Research Section.

While traveling approximately 50 miles in four months the fish added 2½ inches to his length.

Harold Fancey of Marysville won a transistor radio for catching a walleye at Hoover Reservoir that was tagged with a prize winning number. All fishermen are urged to return tags from walleyes taken at Hoover Reservoir to the Inland Fish Research Section, 8589
Horseshoe Road, Ashley, Ohio.

3 Men Fined For Littering

District One Enforcement
Supervisor Fred Schob of Circleville, reports three persons who were arrested for dumping trash along Big Walnut Creek appeared before Judge Kenneth Sater in Columbus Municipal Court.

Two men were fined $25 and $8 cost while the third man received $100 and $8 cost. This man was observed by a farmer dumping the trash and was made to clean it up, after the farmer left, he returned and dumped the trash again and the farmer reported him this time.

Schob says there will be an effort made to apprehend any one dumping trash along any stream.

Scioto Downs 1968 Racing Season Enters Homestretch

Scioto Downs has entered the homestretch of the 1968 season with the finish coming Sept. 17, and the rugged weekend competition keeps getting better and better as the season draws to a close.
Tonight, and Saturday Scioto's Director of Racing, John Phillips, has carded two ten race cards that are star-studded from beginning to end.
In tonight's featured $5,000 Invitational Pace, six survivors of the greatest invitational competition in the history of Scioto Downs will move in behind the gate, and the rail birds will need a crystal ball to select a solid pre-race choice.
Saturday's ten race program offers triple features with the $5,000 Invitational Pace having to share the spotlight with two outstanding $3,000 Preferred Paces that any race track in the country would be glad to offer as feature races.
Rating strong consideration from the track handicapper is Lady Berry, the vaunted 5-year-old roan daughter of Speedster, owned by Dick and Joe Asher of Columbus. Trained and driven by Harry Hughes, Lady Berry has won four of seven starts this season and earned a record of 2:01.3.
In what looks like an invasion from Washington C.H., the trotting greats, Gay Sam and Interloper, both of whom are owned in that Fayette County booth of harness racing, will be tough opposition for Lady Berry, whose driver, Harry Hughes, is from Washington C. H.
Stormer reined by Emmor Bally has won two races this season, and both were in the invitational timed in 2:03. Scioto's leading driver, Marc Ferguson, has a solid contender in Steamtrain Missile, the powerful five-year-old son of Steamfin Demon, owned by Dr. James Nealon of Newark. Ferguson has guided this huge brown gelding to an amazing fourteen victories this season, and owns a record of 2:03.3. Leaving the gate from the coveted pole position is The Timer, a 5-year old speedster, owned and driven by Bob Brown of Harpersburg, Ohio, with a mile mark of 2:02.3.
Saturday's invitational pace attracted seven sizzling sidewheelers, and the incomparable Short John, owned by John Haignere of Centerburg, will defend against such seasoned campaigners as

Gets Tagged Fish

T. C. Thomas of Circleville reports taking a tagged walleye from Big Darby Creek on August 25.

The fish which weighed 2 1/4 pounds and was 18 1/2 inches long had been tagged in Hoover Reservoir April 5, 1968 by the Inland Fish Research Section.

While traveling approximately 50 miles in four months the fish added 2 1/4 inches to his length.

Harold Fancey of Marysville won a transistor radio for catching a walleye at Hoover Reservoir that was tagged with a prize winning number. All fishermen are urged to return tags from walleyes taken at Hoover Reservoir to the Inland Fish Research Section, 8595 Horseshoe Road, Ashley, Ohio.

San Francisco, caught in the middle of the Baltimore-Los Angeles battle royal last year, might make the upcoming race a three-way affair if new Coach Dick Nolan finds the depth he's been looking for in the 49ers' offensive and defensive lines.
Atlanta won three games in 1966, its first year in the NFL. But the Falcons dipped to 1-12-1 last season, prompting Coach Norb Hecker to launch a rebuilding program. He'll go with his youngsters this year, hoping to scratch out a couple of upsets but looking ahead to 1969.

will be televised nationally by NBC.
In addition, there are 10 exhibitions Friday night and Saturday—including two interleague tests. And, the NFL will have to win both to accomplish a little face saving.
Because of Joe Namath's injured knee, Detroit, NFL, is favored to stop the New York Jets, AFL, in the first game of a doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday night. But a showdown the same evening between the Atlanta Falcons, NFL, at Miami, AFL, is rated a toss-up.
Three NFL exhibitions are scheduled Friday night: Minnesota vs. New Orleans at Shreveport, La., St. Louis at Chicago and San Francisco at Los Angeles.

Green Bay's champions collide with the Browns in the second game of the doubleheader at Cleveland Saturday night, while New York plays Philadelphia in the afternoon at Princeton, N.J.; Baltimore is at Dallas, and Pittsburgh plays Washington at Norfolk, Va.
Denver meets Oakland at Portland, Ore., in an AFL exhibition Saturday night.
The NFL swings into regular season play Saturday, Sept. 14, with Atlanta at Minnesota.

Billiard League Opens 6th Year

The Tuesday Billiard League will begin its sixth year with an organizational meeting 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Circle D Lanes.
In the past the handicap league was composed of six two-man teams. This year hopes are for a ten-team league, according to president Bob Wilkinson. First night of the league will be Sept. 17.
The season, which ends around the first of March, features a year-end banquet with trophies honoring high teams and high individual runs and series. Highlight is an open tournament at the end of the season.
Anyone interested in joining the league should attend the organizational meeting or contact Wilkinson, league treasurer Dean Bushee or league secretary Bob MacFadden.

World Series of Golf Set; Prestige Players Chase Win

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP)—The man who has dominated the World Series of Golf will be missing this weekend when the winners of the world's four prestige golf tournaments compete here for gold and glory.

PGA champion Julius Boros, Masters king Bob Goalby, British Open titlist Gary Player and U.S. Open champ Lee Trevino will shoot for the $50,000 first prize in the 36-hole event Saturday and Sunday.

Cincy Reds Still Battle Inconsistency

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Reds have been on a roller coaster ride since the season opened and they have not been able to get off.

Manager Dave Bristol said, "When our batters are hot, out pitching is cold."

Inconsistency, in more ways than one, is a great part of the reason why the Reds—with the league's leading hitter, the top team batting average, and several good hurlers—is so far off the pace set by the St. Louis Cardinals.

Lodged in the first division much of the year, the Reds have posted winning skeins of seven and six games and have won five straight contests on three occasions.

But, Cincinnati also has dropped seven consecutive games once, six games once and five games twice.

Injuries have been a factor, too. Arm problems have plagued Bill McCool, Mel Queen and Gary Nolan. Queen, who posted a 14 - 8 record last year, has hurled slightly over 10 innings and appeared in only four games. Nolan missed nearly the first two months of the season. Jim Maloney and Milt Pappas who was traded to Atlanta, failed to live up to their past form, and Vada Pinson, Pete Rose, Lee May and Tommy Helms were also forced to miss games this season, because of injuries or other reasons.

Rain Washes IL Games Off Board

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
For exactly half the International League's eight teams, watching the skies suddenly has become as important as looking at the scoreboard.

It all began last week in Jacksonville when rain all but obliterated the Mets' last two season series at home. For the Mets, it set up a run of doubleheaders that now is jeopardizing their hopes of making the post-season playoffs.

Four of the twin bills were scheduled — beginning Thursday night—in Columbus, where the Jets are battling to overcome Toledo's Mud Hens for the regular season championship.

But rain intervened Thursday night—at Columbus, where the second game of the first of the four twin bills was canceled after the Jets took the opener 7-4 in 12 innings, and also at Rochester, where Toledo now must play a doubleheader tonight.

Also washed out Thursday night was Richmond's game at Louisville. Syracuse routed Buffalo 13-3.

Richie Hebner's two - run homer in the 12th broke up the first game at Columbus. It followed walks to Al Oliver and Manny Sanguillen.

World Series is the tough 7,189-yard, par 70 Firestone Country Club course, scene of the six previous events.

Jack Nicklaus, perhaps the top-rated golf professional, failed to qualify for only the second time in the seven-year history of the series.

The blond Columbus belter, plagued by an early season slump, has come fast in the last six weeks to take over third place on the money list. He won the inaugural World in 1962, successfully defended his title in 1963 and did not qualify when the late Tony Lema won in 1964.

Jack finished second to Player in 1965 and lost a sudden-death playoff to Gene Littler in 1966 before coming out on top again last year.

All-time leading money - winner Arnold Palmer is here, but not as a contestant. He will be announcer for the ABC team that will televise the event.

Despite being shorn of some of its glamour, the series should be a good one with no apparent clearcut favorite.

But Cyril Stein, managing director of Ladbrooke's, Britain's largest bookmaking establishment, has installed Player and Trevino as 2 to 1 co-favorites. The veteran Boros is listed at 5 to 2 and Goalby is a 5 to 1 choice.

Sponsors Hear PGA Concessions

HOUSTON (AP) — The Professional Golf Association has indicated the PGA would agree to a control board that would include equal representation for the sponsor, player and the PGA.

Max Elbin, PGA president, appeared before major sponsors of the PGA's $5.6 million tour Thursday. The sponsors were meeting to discuss a dispute between the PGA and the touring professionals. Further meetings were scheduled today.

Most of the touring pros left the PGA Aug. 13 in a dispute over control of the tour. They announced Aug. 19 the formation of a new organization called the American Professional Golfers.

Neither Trevino, the rags-to-riches Mexican-American, nor Goalby has played in this event. Boros, who seems at the top of his game in an illustrious 19-year career, already has won more than $145,000. Trevino is over $100,000, and Player and Goalby both near $60,000.

See 80,000 At Football Doubleheader

CLEVELAND (AP) — More than 80,000 persons are expected to clank the Municipal Stadium turnstiles for Saturday night's pro football doubleheader, and many of them will be getting their first look at an American Football League club.

The New York Jets, who meet the Detroit Lions in the opening exhibition game, are the first AFL team ever to play in Cleveland.

The Green Bay Packers play the Cleveland Browns in the second exhibition.

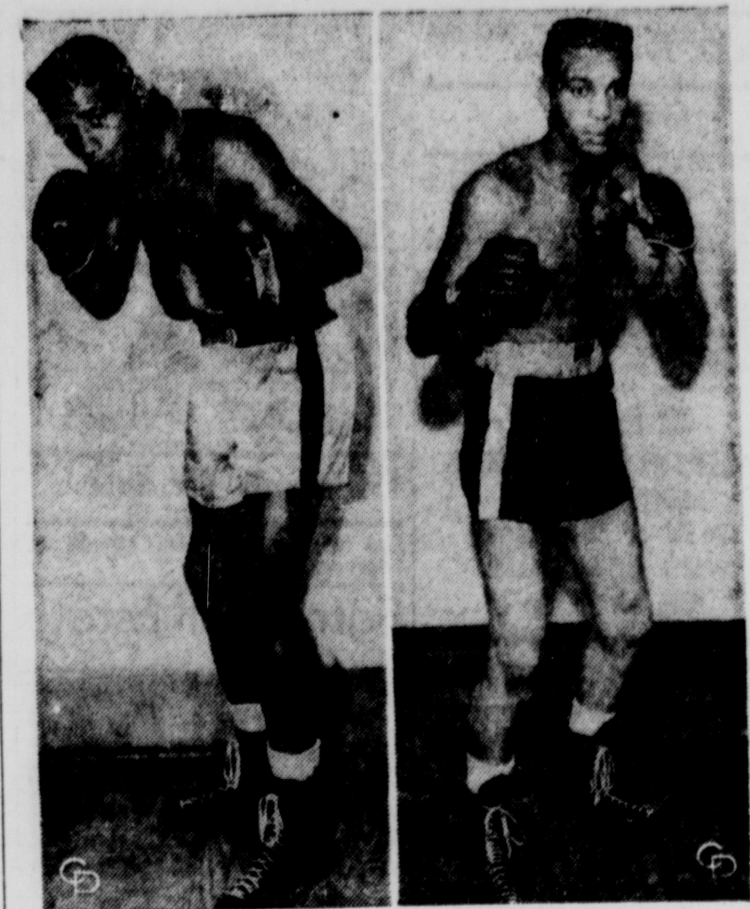

Green Bay, Cleveland and Detroit are National League Football League clubs.

This is the seventh annual doubleheader, and each has been a sellout. The first six attracted nearly half a million people — an average of 82,568 per game, and Saturday's program has been sold out for two weeks.

All four squads go into their final exhibition games with 2-2 records against pro opponents. The Packers also have a 34-17 win over the college all-stars to boost their exhibition record to 3-2.

Crampton Takes Lead At Hartford

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "It used to take three good rounds and one terrific round to win one of these golf tournaments. Now it takes four super rounds," Bruce Crampton said Thursday after he took the first-round lead in the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open.

Taking Australian Crampton at his word, he would be the only one qualified to take home the $20,000 first prize on Sunday. He had the only super round Thursday, a six-under-par 65 over the 6,568-yard Wethersfield Country Club.

Five other players were two shots behind Crampton at four-under-par 67, including 23-year-old rookie Ron Cerrudo and veterans Al Balding, Billy Maxwell, Ken Still and Mason Rudolph.

Crampton's putting touch was golden for four consecutive holes as he scored birdies on putts of 10, 15, 8 and 12 feet on the fourth through seventh holes. "It sure was fun," Crampton said.

Billy Casper was in an eight-man tie at 68 after the first round. Casper, leading money winner in 1968 with $151,329 so far, missed a chance to move closer to the lead when he missed putts of three feet and five feet on the first two holes, and missed another from four feet on the 18th green.

Barbed Wire at Da Nang Is Used To Seal Off City

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Da Nang and its 320,000 residents are being circled by a double ring of barbed wire fences in the first allied effort to seal off a major city from Viet Cong infiltrators.

Dubbed Lam's Wall after its architect, Lt. Gen. Hoang van Lam, the antiguerrilla barrier consists of two fortified lines—one around the city's outskirts and the second cutting through the rice paddies and foothills seven miles away.

The inner barrier, a 100-yard-wide strip with parallel barbed wire fences, minefields and watchtowers, was completed nearly two months ago.

U.S. Marines and Seabees and Vietnamese army engineers are pushing construction of the 22-mile outer barrier. It is expected

Seek Corporate College Donations

CLEVELAND (AP)—A group of Cleveland executives said Thursday the Ford Foundation has promised $250,000 over the next five years to finance a campaign to get corporations to give more money to colleges and universities.

The group called the Corporate One Per Cent Program for Higher Education said the aim is to get companies to pledge one per cent of their net income, before taxes, to be given to a college of their choice.

George S. Dively, chairman of the program, said if all the corporations in the country gave one per cent of their net profit the national figure would be $800 million.

MAC Eyes Tangerine Bowl, But Wants Answer First

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Mid-American Conference athletic directors are interested in entering their football champion in the 1969 Tangerine Bowl, but want a few questions answered before accepting the invitation.

"Our athletic directors were very much interested in the Tangerine Bowl," said MAC Commissioner Bob James after a meeting here Thursday.

James said the questions pertained mainly to accommodations, practice facilities and game arrangements.

The league's Council of Presidents will be given a Sept. 17 deadline to either accept or decline the invitation, he said.

The Southern Conference has invited the MAC to allow its champion to meet the SC titlist in the Tangerine Bowl game at Orlando, Fla., Dec. 28.

Until this year, college division teams of the NCAA participated in the annual post-season contest. The Southern Conference, however, has signed a two-year agreement with the bowl to act as host conference.

Hockey Schedule Has 456 Games

MONTREAL (AP) — Variety is the keynote of the National Hockey League's 1968-69 regular-season schedule, released today.

The record 456-game schedule, which gets under way with three games Oct. 11, includes 216 interlocking contests between East and West Division teams.

This represents six games more than the entire NHL schedule for each of the 18 seasons prior to the 1967-68 expanded 12-team league when 444 games were played, including 144 interlocking encounters.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — In the featured conditional trot at Scioto Downs Thursday night, Keystone Waltz upset the favorite Egyptian Victor by a neck, winning in 2:08 3/5.

Taking the early lead, the 3-year-old filly led from wire to wire and held off Egyptian Victor at the finish for her fifth victory in 12 starts this season.

Keystone Waltz paid $29, $11.80 and $7.20. Egyptian Victor returned $4 and $3.20, and Mr. M. P. was worth $5.20 to show.

The 8-1 daily double of Miss Flying M. and Rush Win paid $407.60.

Barbed Wire at Da Nang Is Used To Seal Off City

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Da Nang and its 320,000 residents are being circled by a double ring of barbed wire fences in the first allied effort to seal off a major city from Viet Cong infiltrators.

Dubbed Lam's Wall after its architect, Lt. Gen. Hoang van Lam, the antiguerrilla barrier consists of two fortified lines—one around the city's outskirts and the second cutting through the rice paddies and foothills seven miles away.

The inner barrier, a 100-yard-wide strip with parallel barbed wire fences, minefields and watchtowers, was completed nearly two months ago.

U.S. Marines and Seabees and Vietnamese army engineers are pushing construction of the 22-mile outer barrier. It is expected to be completed within a month to six weeks, according to Lam, commander of the 1st military corps area in northern South Vietnam.

The southern section of the outer line had been nearly completed when the Communist command sent two battalions of nearly 1,000 men marching on Da Nang recently. All of the watchtowers and bunkers were not in place but the fence was credited with channeling the enemy troops into the path of waiting allied units.

North Vietnamese soldiers cut through a 50-foot length of the fence and then moved into Hoa Vang, only two miles south of Da Nang, where they were trapped and mauled Aug. 23 by U.S. Marines and Seabees.

Czech Churches Shaken by Soviet Occupation

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Just a few days before the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia, a Czech Baptist, Valstisl Pospisil, told a youth gathering, "This year with us in Czechoslovakia is the year of hope for further work in the vineyard of the Lord." But after the military intervention, leaders of the Evangelical Church of Czech Brethren dispatched a letter, saying, "We are deeply shaken by this attack... Let us all be loyal to the experience of our Hussite and Moravian forefathers that God's truth must be victorious." The abrupt change in outlook, from an atmosphere of rising confidence and new vigor to a mood of distress and uncertainty, marks the impact of the Soviet-led occupation on the religious life of Czechoslovakia, historically a land of Christian valor and drama.

Church activity there, after 20 years of harsh restrictions, had just begun to bloom anew and flourish more openly. But now a heavy question mark hangs over it. The religious sunburst had become an ominous cloud.

"It's a nightmare," said Blahoslav S. Hruby, a National Council of Churches expert on religious affairs in Communist countries, and Czech-born himself. "I'm afraid that if America and the rest of the free world doesn't do something, the Czech freedom will go down."

Some cautious hopes were expressed in the Vatican that the Soviet interference may not completely reverse the earlier trend toward improved church-state relations, at least not in the immediate future.

But the prospects remained uncertain, despite the manifest dismay of Czech church leaders at the Soviet infringement, and their determination to continue to press for the rights of faith.

"In the name of our whole church we protest against the threat to the process of renewal, against the infringement of our state sovereignty," declared the letter from the Synodical Council of the Czech Brethren Church.

It reminded members that in numerous circumstances in history, Christians have used "unarmed resistance" to seek a "way out of the most difficult situations," and added:

"Let us pray that we Christians may confess the truth of the Gospel, and that we may think, speak and work in freedom and peace as citizens of our state."

Czechoslovakia, which has played an influential role in the struggle for Christian liberty, was the home of the early reformer, John Hus of the University of Prague, burned at the stake in 1415 for pitting the Bible against ecclesiastical authoritarianism, a century before the Protestant Reformation.

In the modern period, hundreds of clergymen were imprisoned or executed, first by the Nazis, then by Stalinist Communists. The Roman Catholic primate, Josef Beran, esteemed by Protestants and Orthodox as well as by Catholics, was imprisoned until 1963, and has since been an exile in Rome.

But religious suppression had been rapidly eased in the eight months since early 1968, with many bishops and clergy freed from prison or ostracism and restored to their posts, seminaries reopened, censorship lifted, and liberties revived, up to the time of the Soviet countermove.

The country is mainly Roman Catholic, with about eight million baptized members of that church, but there also are about two million Protestants, a half-million Eastern Orthodox, and 18,000 Jews.

The larger Protestant bodies and their memberships include the Evangelical (Lutheran) Church, 503,000, the national Protestant Czech Church, 1 million; the Brethren, 290,000, the Reformed (Presbyterian) Church, 150,000, along with smaller groups of Baptists, Methodists, Moravians and Seventh-day Adventists.

Small Plane Owners Vow Fight Against FAA Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's major airlines say they expect federal controls aimed at clearing the cluttered skies of New York, Chicago and Washington to become law by Nov. 1.

This was the airlines' resigned reaction this week to the Transportation Department's listing of what would be the first-ever federal controls on air traffic.

But the pilots of small planes vowed a fierce fight.

The regulations proposed by the Transportation Department would slash takeoffs and landings during peak hours at O'Hare Airport in Chicago, the world's busiest, by 82.

At New York's Kennedy Airport peak traffic periods would see a drop by 48 takeoffs and landings per hour. Small planes would be barred from 5 to 8 p.m. daily.

Stuart G. Tipton, president of the Air Transport Association, representing the nation's commercial airlines, didn't object to the proposals, although he said they should be considered only stopgap measures.

But the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, which counts 145,000 private pilots as members, said: "The AOPA intends to forcefully oppose this proposed rule making with every means at our command, while we continue to press for the fair and proper solutions to the air traffic management problems."

The Federal Aviation Administration plans a public hearing on the proposed limits Sept. 25. The government warned the airlines last month to propose voluntary measures for trimming air congestion.

Air traffic controllers attracted attention to the problem by strictly enforcing safety clearances between planes, leading to delays of as long as five hours at busy East Coast airports.

The airlines came up with plans for a joint airline committee to act as a schedule coordinator and a scheme of sliding fare rates to encourage travel at slack periods.

The Transportation Department proposals set an hourly limit of 80 takeoffs and landings at York's Kennedy, where as many as 128 have been recorded in a single hour.

Chicago's double-runway O'Hare has logged as many as 217, but would be restricted to 135.

At Washington National, just across the Potomac from the capital, the top limit would be 60 an hour. The same limit was proposed for LaGuardia and Newark in the New York area.

The limit at all airports would be broken down between various classes of flights. O'Hare's limits, for example, would permit 115 takeoffs and landings for airlines, 10 for air taxis and 10 for other planes.

The FAA set hourly limits a couple of years ago at Washington National, which the agency operates, but the airlines worked out a voluntary program acceptable to the agency.

Clifford Says M16 Contracts Legal, Need for Haste Shown

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army methods of awarding contracts for stepped up production of the M16 rifle were intended to hasten an end to the Vietnam war, says Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford in answer to congressional critics.

The defense chief said Thursday avoidance of competitive bidding was legal and was necessary to rush the weapons into the hands of South Vietnamese soldiers.

The United States is supplying South Vietnamese with thousands of the lightweight M16s each month hoping eventually to let them handle most of the fighting.

"The M16 rifle is not only the best shoulder gun today, it has become a symbol to the South Vietnamese forces," Clifford told the National Press Club.

"If a South Vietnamese soldier has an M16, then, by God, he's on top of the heap. He knows he has a better weapon than the enemy."

A Senate investigating subcommittee earlier this week assailed the Army for awarding contracts last April without competitive bidding to the General Motors Corp. for a ceiling price of $56.3 million and to Harrington & Richardson for a ceiling of $41.5 million.

It criticized the Army for failing to consider lower bids by Maremont Corp. of Saco, Maine and Cadillac Gage.

The Army's explanation has been that the two companies which won the M16 business were in better position to produce them faster.

Production of the M16 has reached 35,000 to 40,000 a month now, Clifford said, and will go higher.

"We're going to have them up to 50,000 or 60,000, and we are going to save a substantial amount of money because that's going to help us end the war more quickly—and every day we save in the war, we save an amount far more than what it would cost us to get this advanced additional production on the part of the M16."
